

THE ISLE OF MORDOL*

Jerry Stratton
Tractor Feed Adventures
1982

*An adventure for Basic and Expert Dungeons & Dragons
And Dungeon Masters who like screaming in the night.*

* Why yes, I had read Tolkien by 1982. Why do you ask?

WHAT IS THIS CRAP?

While we played a hodge-podge of OD&D, AD&D, and Moldvay D&D in our first games, this was written using the 1981 Moldvay Basic set and the 1981 Cook Expert set as references. Thus, monsters save as character class levels (or Normal Man) and the alignments are Lawful, Neutral, and Chaotic. In the descriptions of player character alignments, though, I seem to be assuming both Law/Chaos and Evil/Good axes. This probably came from starting with Blue Book D&D and rolling characters with the PH.

Some of the monsters are obviously custom monsters. Hopefully their name describes what's special about them. I have no entry anywhere describing what a "Jonah Whale" actually is, for example. Presumably it's a whale that you can live inside after you've been eaten.

I have no memory of how I rolled wandering monsters.

I've tried to discern the original whenever possible; in college I went through and bowdlerized it by reducing the treasure haul, as well as the bonuses on magical treasure. Fortunately, I only got about a third of the way in before I gave up. It's an unbowlerizable text.

Thanks to the wonders of modern technology, you don't have to unroll a five-foot by five-foot map (seven sheets wide by five sheets tall) to get an overview of the island. In the original, I don't think I ever saw the island as a whole. Each section was a strip of five sheets of 8.5x11 paper taped together vertically. If the player characters went horizontally instead of vertically, I unrolled another sheet.

The maps were drawn with color pencil. This makes it virtually impossible to use Inkscape's tracing function to get a simple vector-based map. Maybe someday I'll go through by hand and trace over the maps to get smaller, higher quality ones. Don't hold your breath.

Each square is fifty feet on a side. That makes each sheet about half a mile by two-thirds of a mile, and the entire map about 3.5 miles by 3.2 miles. Tiny island. Big map.

I have added punctuation, articles, and conjunctions. I wrote the key to these maps in a word processor of my own design on a TRS-80 Model I. With only 64 characters to a line, it looked really ugly if a line had more than about 60 characters (each line was also prepended by a line number). So abbreviations were the name of the game, not that D&D didn't itself encourage arcane abbreviations. There were also some interesting "features" of that word processor not worth reproducing. Other than that and deciphering a palimpsest of erased treasure, this is the original text. I may, later, attempt to update it for Gods & Monsters, but I doubt it.

I've subtitled the ancient folder I keep this in as for "Character Levels 2-5".

Maybe. If the players are very skilled and very lucky and suck up to the DM.

Remember, as you laugh, that a real person ran this, even if I can't remember much about him thirty years later. The characters returned to Specularum with newfound wealth and power; by this time they were all evil. One became evil during the adventure due to injudicious use of one of the magic items. One had already been evil; he'd been acting awfully good while adventuring with the other good characters, so the alignment gods sent him a test to see if he would be punished for being too good; he passed the test. So, in Specularum, they were contacted by the minions of Hell and forced to recover the Gem of Kerouac[†]. After that, memory fades.

* One of the nice things about an evil game is that while good NPCs request assistance, evil NPCs demand it.

† No idea. I had not read On the Road, and tended to confuse Kerouac with Charles Kuralt.

KEY

Emphasized monster names mean something. They were asterisks in the original. Asterisks applied to vampires, werewolves, and rust monsters. And vampire sharks! I'm guessing it means that special weapons are required to hit the creature, and that I was very haphazard about adding the asterisk.

The maps inside are marked as the lower case of the island section. That was my notation for "this map is on the other side of the piece of paper used for that section of the island".

DESCRIPTION

The dots are shipwrecks, no treasure, obviously salvaged. The 'x' are dinghys, with oars. The square is the home of 15 survivors and their leader (all chaotic). For men, see wandering monsters.

- Leader: AC-1 (plate+3, ring+1), F4, hp23, At1 (2-handed sword), D1-10, C;

The home was built from the shipwrecks. The outside is smeared with garlic and wolfsbane, and there is one silver holy symbol on each wall. The walls are 12 inches thick. Inside, blankets are all over the floor.

At night, each person's armor and weapons are kept next to them. 10 bows and 400 arrows are at the north wall.

The cupboards hold wooden utensils, food (plant and meat).

The crosses in circles are torches.

The room to the northwest holds 3,000 copper pieces, 100 gold pieces, and 10 platinum pieces in a chest that weighs 4,000 coins total. There are no windows.

Behind the fire is their treasure: 711 copper pieces, 1,032 silver pieces, and 348 electrum pieces. The exit to the empty lair is blocked by a large boulder, and a combined strength of 43 is needed to move it.

ca B 1) Goblin lair

The padlocked chest contains a +1 flaming sword, a helm of teleportation, (2) amethysts worth 50 gold pieces each, and 200 gold pieces. The chest itself is gold-lined, weighs 1,000 coins, and is worth

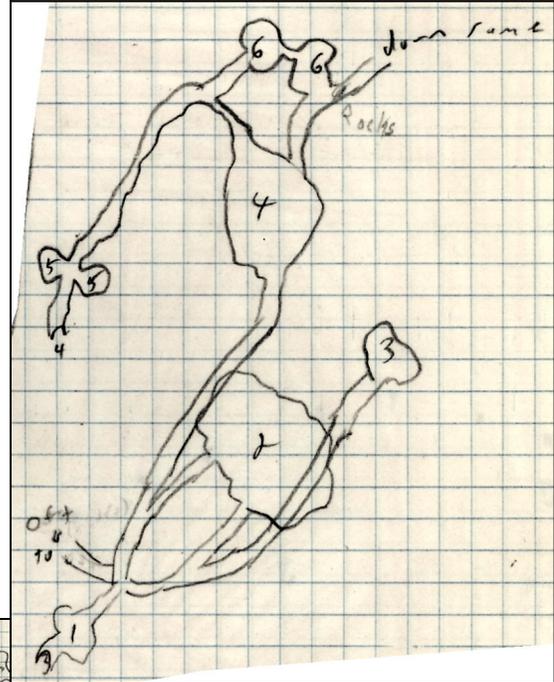

3,800 gold pieces.* The key to the chest is in the thoul's stomach.

7. Empty, except for three dead trolls.
8. Empty.
9. d4+4 giant shrews: AC4, HD1, hp 7, 6, 5, 8, At 2 bites, D1-6/1-6, save F1, N;
10. 2 caecilia: AC6, HD6, hp 22, 21, At 1 bite, D1-8, save F3, N; a hit of 19 or 20 means the caecilia has swallowed its opponent who can then only use a dagger, at -4 'to hit'. There are piles of gold on the floor, 3026 gold pieces.

ca C 4)3) stone giant lair

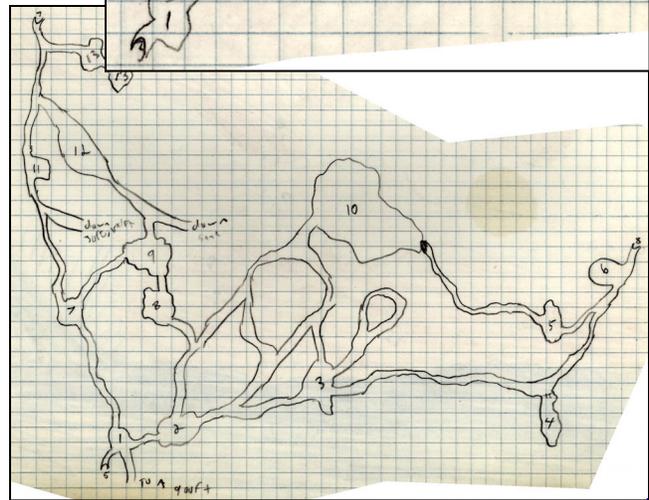

8 stone giants, and 6 cave bears.

1. Guard room. 3 cave bears. The bears will not attack unless the party attempts to gain entrance. Fighting has a 75% chance of bringing d4 giants from location 2.
2. 4 stone giants. This is the eating and common room. Food is in the northwest, mostly vegetables.
3. Treasure room: 300 gold pieces in piles, and a stone box with a very heavy cover contains a scroll of protection from undead, a clerical scroll of purify food and water at level 6, a wand of magic detection with 6 charges, and a map showing the location of Saridel†. Lifting the cover requires a combined strength of 55.

6. Private rooms: There are 2 stone giants in each room. There's a 40% chance for each giant that the giant is asleep.

ca D 5)7)8) empty lair

1. 4 giant scorpions: AC2, HD4, hp 17, 17, 19, 19, At 2 claws/1 sting, D1-10/1-10/1-4+poison, save F2, C; the stinger is at +2 if a claw hits. There are two human skeletons here wearing rusted chain, one with a sword and one with a hammer. There are 37 gold pieces scattered around them.
2. 3 yellow molds: AC none, HD2, hp 15, 13, 9, At spores, D1-6+choke, save F2, N; they attack if disturbed; they can only be hurt by fire. Anyone hit by the spores must save vs. Death Ray or choke to death in 6 rounds.
3. 6 black widows: AC6, HD3, hp 14, 10, 21, 12, 17, 9, At 1 bite, D2-12+poison, save F2, N in the south nook. Under their webs are 8 gold pieces. There is a stone basilisk by the northwest wall, with a chest (500 coins) next to it. The chest contains a wand of fireballs (5 charges), a scroll of feeblemind, and a potion of delusion. In the main part is a real basilisk (AC4, HD6+1 hp 23, At 1 bite+gaze, D1-10+petrification, save F6, N; anyone attacking the basilisk meets its gaze unless they take a -4 'to hit' and a penalty of 2 on AC).
4. Wooden door, easily opened. Medusa wearing a turban: AC8, HD4, hp 17, At 1 snake bite+look, D1-6+poison, save F4 with +2 on magical saves, C; anyone attacking her without looking at her has -4 'to hit' and a penalty of 2 on AC. She has a censer of controlling air elementals. If the party looks too tough, she will

* In my bowdlerization, I dropped the 3,800 gold pieces to 1,800. I left the flaming sword and the helm of teleportation, however. Which is fine, because flaming swords are cool and lugging gold around isn't.

† You might, at this point, wonder who Saridel is. Apparently so did I. Later notes list "things to write up" and one of those "things" is "Saridel".

direct them to room 8; otherwise, when they are all in, she will take off the turban so that all will see her. She may also make a show of asking the elemental something, thus bringing it to bear in a fight. Air elemental: AC0, HD12, hp56, At whirlwind, D2-16, save F12, N.

5. Empty.
6. Outcast Orc: AC5, HD2, hp 16, at mace+2, D4-10, save F1, C. In the northwest is a pile of rags, under which is his meager treasure, 17 gold pieces and 6 copper pieces.
7. Shrieker: AC7, HD3, hp 12, yells, 50% per round for wandering monster: Carrion Crawler (AC7, HD3+1, hp 8, 15, 14, 19, At 8 tentacles, D paralysis, save F2, N); Cockatrice (AC6, HD5, hp 10, 22, 13, 28, At 1 beak, D1-76+petrification, save F5, N); Giant Toads (AC7, HD2+2, hp 14, 11, 13, 7, At 1 bite, D2-5, save F1, N); Wraith (AC3, HD4, hp 22, At 1 touch, D1-6+1 level, save F4, C; silver weapons do half damage).
8. One wraith (see room 7, above) guards a treasure chest (300 coins), holding a bag of holding, that holds 304 gold pieces. Also in the chest is a +1 sword that casts light, and a potion of fire resistance.
9. Empty.
10. 2 chimeras: AC4, HD9, hp 49, 51, At 2 claws/goat gore/lion bite/dragon bite or fire, D1-3/1-3/2-8/2-8/3-12 or 1-18, save F9, C; it can only breathe fire three times per day. Under a rock pile in the northernmost is 790 gold pieces and 3 garnets (50 gold pieces each).
11. Ochre Jelly: AC8, HD5, hp 35, At 1, D2-12, save F3, N; it can only be harmed by fire or cold. Other attacks turn it into 2HD ochre jellies.
12. Cockatrice lair. 6 cockatrices: AC6, HD5, hp 24, 31, 17, 22, At 1 beak, D1-6+petrification, save F5, N. In the center of the room is a pool of unholy water. Under it is 3 stone cockatrices, a potion of human control, and a rusted +1 shield that can be buffed and oiled to usefulness. There are also 7 stone cockatrices in the room.
13. 11 giant toads: AC7, HD2+2, hp 11, 8, 18, 16, 8, 6, 8, 10, 12, 15, 15, At 1 bite, D3-5, save F1, N.

ba A 6)9) Kobold lair

AC7, HD1/2, At 1, D1-4 (weapon-1), save NM, C.

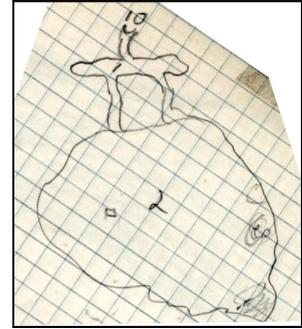

1. Goes down very steep for 400 feet and then just stops.
2. Guard room: 5 kobolds with spears.
3. Common room: 25 kobolds with no weapons. Most will run to the rooms marked 5, but the King (AC7, HD2, hp 9, At sword, D1-8, save NM, C) and 4 bodyguards will stay if they can hold invaders off (AC7, HD1+1, hp 6, At scimitar, D1-8, save NM, C).
4. Treasure room: a combined strength of 45 is needed to move the boulder. Inside are 2 guards who automatically gain initiative: AC7, HD1+1, hp 6, At sword+1, spear+3, D2-9, 4-9, save NM, C. The treasure is 420 silver pieces and 2,410 copper pieces.†
5. 6 Kobolds in each. 25% of kobolds will have a spear (D1-6), and each has 0-5 copper pieces on them.

* Or is cockatrice its own plural?

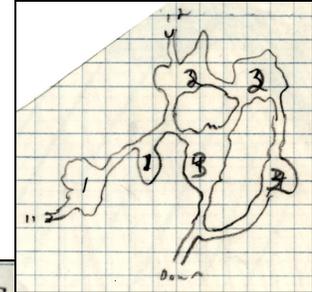

† They spent the rest on magic weapons. That's a nice spear.

ba B 10) Deserted lair

1. 4d10 skeletons: AC7, HD1, At 1, D1-6, save F1, C.
2. Secret rock doors to this room require a combined strength of 100 to open. They can be seen, if looking, on 1 or 2 on d6. 22. Part of the cave bear lair, see room 21.

* I considered updating this to "A double one is needed to hit the switch", but correcting the grammar implies an understanding of the text that I don't have. They have to roll 11 on d100 to open the secret door? Two ones on a d20? Two ones on a d6? WTF?

† Deciphering this is like decoding a cipher. Originally, for hit points, I had "<1:1,8><2:5,3><3:7,2,4>".

‡ Wow, no saving throw? That's so unfair. Becomes four wights? Are they duplicates, or is this an evil dead sort of thing where the dead person's body parts start attacking? Either one's kind of cool. Your friend walks into a dark room, and four of him come out attacking you. Which one's real? None of them! You're fucked!

* Which means he's not even hungry. He's eating adventurers because he prefers them over meals the bag provides enough to risk fighting them. What is a bag of meals, anyway? I can't find it in the Basic set, Expert set, or the DMG. Maybe it's not even a magical item. Maybe it's just a bag of severed legs and other ogre snackables.

† There's something special about the sword, but I can't read it. Something like "+ish". It might be "wish", and this is a +1 sword, wishes.

If not there is a 25% chance that a foreign emissary is coming to hire some Orcs (he will stay in cave entrance 14). He will be level 10+d6 and he will have 2d12 level d4 fighters, d4 level 7 fighters, a 50% chance for a d20+1 level magic-user, and a 50% chance for a d20+1 level Cleric. His ship will be guarded by marines (level 1-3) and a captain (level 10).

† I wonder if that notebook also tells me what a bag of meals is. And a Jonah Whale.

altar is 6 feet high by 5 feet by 4 feet. He also has a rod of cancellation which only works on weapons, but will work once a day, a ring of djinni summoning, and a ring of x-ray vision. If there is no way it can win (and if it has a few seconds foreknowledge of the party's coming) it will assume human form (AC8, D3-4) and play as if it had been captured by the bears. It will attack later.
3. 30% for each bear to be here.

6. A wraith guards the entrance to the dragon. If it begins to lose, it will call its subordinate. Wraiths: AC3, HD4, hp 31, 13, At 1, D1-6+1 level, save F4, C. They will gain initiative due to the mist.
7. Room of mirrors. There is another -1 on 'to hit' here. There is a 60% chance that the subordinate wraith (see room 6) will be here.

His treasure is 4,441 silver pieces, 38,175 electrum pieces, 3,102 gold pieces, 5 large diamonds (1,400 gold pieces), and a treasure chest with a poison lock. The chest contains a potion of flying and a potion of diminution.

2. Hallway. The door at the end is pure crystal.
3. Guardroom. 4 living statues of crystal guard it: AC4, HD3, hp 11, 19, 18, 13, At 2, D1-6/1-6, save F3, L. They can talk crystal and one (hp 19, the leader) also speaks common. In the hole are three suits of plate mail armor (human), 2 suits of chain mail (dwarven), 1 bronze sword, 1 silver dagger, and 3 normal daggers. The hole goes down 20 feet.
4. 10 living statues: AC4, HD3, hp 6, 21, 13, 13, 14, 20, 11, 16, 13, 12, At2, D1-6/1-6, save F3, L.

da G 24) Bugbear lair

1. Guardroom. 4 guards on each side: AC5, HD3+1, hp 12, 15, 19, 23, 10, 10, 15, 19, At1, D2-8, save F3, C. Two of the guards have a spear (1-6). Each also has d6 gold pieces and d4 copper pieces.

5. Treasure room. 1,543 copper pieces and 1,336 silver pieces.

If they are carrying much treasure and making a lot of noise, there is a 45% chance that a band of bandits will attack.

MAP EA AND FA

The city is Cankor*, where the party will first land†. No one is allowed in the section for the army or the castle. The nearer that things are to the castle, the higher their prices, and the better their quality. The roads are stone-paved, and the rest is plains.

The people make their living fishing. Farm products (except seaweed) are very rare. The hills are 20-50 feet high. The bridges are the boundaries for fishing. The people are very superstitious‡, and will not travel across the river, except for funerals. Bandits sneak in at night.

* I'm just too overwhelmed to make a joke on this. You have to pity their tourism board, though. I'm guessing "Cankor is for lovers" is out of the question.

† Love the organization. This is where the party will first land. Most writers would make this the first part of the document. Not me; I start from the lower left (which I don't think anyone has ever been to) and move right, then up. I'm surprised I didn't reverse direction after getting all the way to the right, and start moving left back to the other side. Or even more surprised I didn't move up instead of right. The maps are attached so that they scroll up. The description "scrolls" right. Which means that every time they moved off of a map I either had to search for another scroll (they move east or west), or flip through the text for the correct description (they move north or south).

‡ Is it superstition when there really are ghosts on the other side?

WANDERING MONSTERS

- d6 vampires: AC2, HD7-9, At 1, D10+2 levels, save F7-9, C. A vampire may charm any who gaze into its eyes. They save at -2. Level 7: hp 29, 45, 36, 28; Level 8: 32, 35, 33, 40; Level 9: 35, 34, 44, 53.
- Wolves: AC7, HD2+2, hp 12, 7, 16, 15, 10, 11, At 1 bite, D1-6, save F1, N.
- d4 dire wolves: AC6, HD4+1, hp 16, 18, 29, 26, 24, 17, At 1 bite, D2-8, save F2, N.

ISLANDS

The islands are invisible until within 10 feet of them. Once within 50 feet, extreme high winds will buffet them back to where they came from. There is a 20% chance that a galley will ship water, 10% for other ships. Speed will then be reduced by 1/3 until it can dock and make repairs.

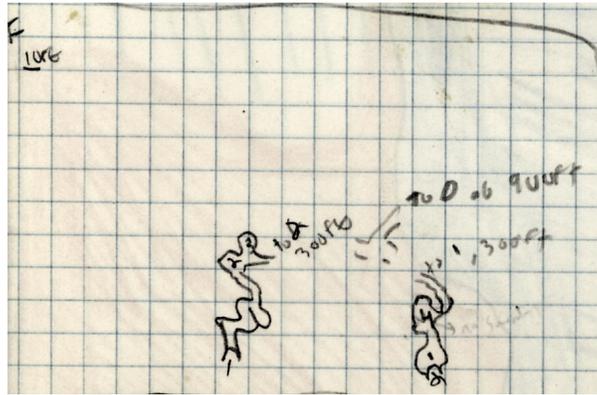

- Sea serpents, lesser (water only): AC5, HD6, hp 25, 33, 29, 23, At 1 bite (person) or squeeze (ship), D2-12 or 1-10, save F3, N.

MAP AB

The cliff at the shore goes straight down 40 feet. The point on the island closest to the shore is 5 feet across.

MAIN ISLAND

AB F 1) 2) LIZARD MAN GUARD CAVE

d6+2 lizard men outside, using spears (2-7) and clubs.

1. 5 lizard men using clubs.
2. 4 lizard men. One uses a sword-1, cursed.
3. Temporary treasure room. Empty except for bones, food, and d6 lizard men.
4. 5 lizard men, and 39 silver pieces in the corner.

Aranea in the forest

The island is damp, and the forest is thick. Besides lizard men, 4 aranea live in the forest: AC7, HD3, hp 7, 13, 19, 14, At 1 bite, D1-6+poison, save M3, C. Aranea may also use spells as a 3rd level magic-user.

- Aranea #1 (hp 7): Read languages, charm person, invisibility; In his tree is a chest with 366 gold pieces. On the chest for easy use is a 5-spell scroll with magic missile, teleport, haste, transmute rock to mud, and move earth.
- Aranea #2 (hp 13): Read magic, detect magic, locate object. It wears a ring of djinni summoning. In this one's chest is 688 gold pieces.
- Aranea #3 (hp 19): Read magic, floating disc, levitate. This one has 48 copper pieces in her chest, and a spell scroll of project image on top for use.
- Aranea #4 (hp 14): Hold portal, sleep, knock. This one has 142 gold pieces, 2 rubies (300 gold pieces) in its chest, and a potion of invulnerability on top.

Their webs are at location 3 in trees about 10 feet apart (each has its own). They can, within d6+1 rounds, come to the aid of each other. The webs are about 30 feet up, and can be walked on, since they are webbed over, and roofed with leaves, bark, twigs, etc. The webbed sections resemble caves. They can be seen only if climbing the tree. If in the area of location 3, there is a 1 in 10 chance of climbing the right one*.

At the foot of many of the trees are lizard-men skulls. If climbing one of these, there is a 1 in 8 chance of hitting the right tree.

Each aranea has a 65% chance of being in its lair. The treasure chest in each web has a poison trap.

Wandering monsters in water

- Jonah Whales: AC6, HD36, hp ____, ____, ____, ____, † At 1 bite, D3-30, save F15, N. They swallow their opponent on a roll three greater than necessary.
- Sharks: AC4, HD2, hp 5, 6, 10, 7, 13, 11, At 1 bite, D2-8, save F1, N.

*I'm guessing that by "the right one" I mean that if they climb a random tree they are 1-in-10 (or 1-in-8) likely to climb a tree with an aranea web on it.

† I didn't want to roll hit points for 36-HD creatures unless absolutely necessary? Or I wanted to impress the players with the number of dice I needed to use when they decided to attack the whale?

DESCRIPTION

In the middle of the clearing in the trees in the southeast is a rock altar. A random sacrificial animal of somebody's god will appear. If that person offers the animal as a sacrifice, he will be interviewed by his god to see if he is worthy. If so, he will be granted anything, but what he asks for is also part of the test. If he fails (doesn't act right, asks for something big) he will be cursed. No one else will notice this questioning, as it takes place on the spiritual planes at slowed time.

In the southeast is an Orc tower, abandoned. Anyone going by (on the path or river) will hear her yell for help, and if they can see the East window, will see her—as when she was alive. There are 8 skeletons on the bottom floor: AC7, HD1, At1, D1-6, save F1, C. The 2nd, 4th, and 6th floors are empty, along with the dungeon. There are 4 skeletons in the 3rd floor, and 5 on the 5th. In the top dungeon is the "girl"—who is now a skeleton with hair. She will act as though she didn't know she is dead, and will act lawful, following the party out if they let her loose. Upon leaving the tower, she will become dust, and then the dust will form into a red amulet, surrounded by silver, with a gold chain. This will glow whenever the wearer is about to be endangered. It will also, upon being thrown into the rivers surrounding Grabdok's lair, reform into Ara—the skeleton, but this time fully alive, and wanting to return to Erression*. The amulet will glow with heat when next to the river.

Orc tower in the southwest: see aa E for map. If many orc parties in the area are disappearing, or turn up dead, this will be beefed up. It is an outpost for the mercenary orcs.

In the forest between this tower and the swamp, a good person will (roll a secret 5 in 6) see a glint off to the east. About 10 feet off to the side is a sword-in-stone (+3, lawful, int 15, ego 12). This sword will not get a +3 against monsters within Grabdok's rivers, but if the 'to hit' +3 is made, there is an automatic double damage. This sword does not do damage against other "goods". It can be pulled out by a lawful good* on a 3 in 6, chaotic 2 in 6, and neutral 1 in 6. This can be tried only once every five levels.

* See the history of Mordol in the appendix. He's the apparently good wizard.

Area A (sand)

7 staff earth elementals: AC6, HD8, hp 33, 37, 43, 36, 44, 21, At 1, D2-16, save F8, N. These elementals will attack any strong party attempting to move across the sand, and will follow them up to 10 feet from the sand (MV 20 feet/round) or scare off any party not worth attacking.

Area B (river)

7 staff water elementals: AC2, HD8, D1-8+, save F8, N. If in the water, they do an additional 1-8 points damage. The elementals will attempt to do the same as the earth elementals, but not leaving the water. Their "territory" stretches from the bridge by area B to the far west part of the river, 1-200 feet from the falls.

Area C (forest)

- 15 treants: AC2, HD8, AT2, D2-12/2-2, save F8, L.

Treants may also animate trees (2 per treant at a time) to fight as treants. The treants will not attack unless the party attempts to chop trees in area C. (There is a 1 in 20 chance that this tree will be a treant.) There is a 50% chance that the treants will attack, or that they will simply have the tree run away. If the party attempts to start a forest fire, all treants will animate two trees to fight.

Points D1 and D2 on the paths are connected by an invisible 2-way portal to each other. It will seem as though the path just acts normal, but there is a 2 in 6 chance that, if it is morning or night, each person will notice that the sun is on the other side.

Area D (swamp)

4 sea serpents will attack any non-orcs attempting to pass through the swamp.

- d4 sea serpents (lesser): AC5, HD6, hp 25, 26, 24, 34, At 1 bite, D2-12, save F3, N.

Area E (bay)

15 giant piranhas will attack anyone entering the bay.

- 3d4+3 giant piranhas: AC6, HD3+3, hp 9, 12, 20, 18, At 1 bite, D1-8, save F2, N.

Point F (buried skull)

Right at this point is a skull, half-buried in the ground. If they party digs him out, they will find a small sack with 3 gold pieces, 4 silver pieces, and a map of the island.

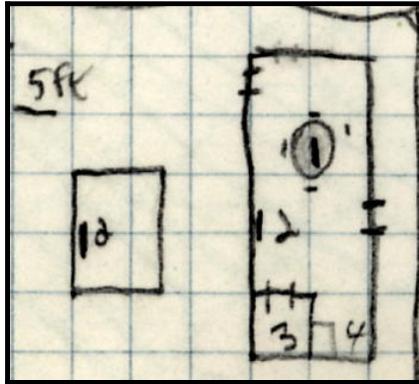

Area G (whirlpool)

At the fork, there must be a total strength of 90 rowing to keep from being pulled in. Anyone going down the whirlpool will take 2-8 points of damage. The boat will take 3-10. They will find themselves in the dwarven stronghold Stragenheim. See map db C.

* I keep writing "lawful good", even here where I'm then referencing just chaotic and neutral. This probably comes from the blue book D&D we started gaming with. I considered fixing them (here it could easily be changed to just "lawful"), but later on I start distinguishing between different combinations.

db A Farmhouse

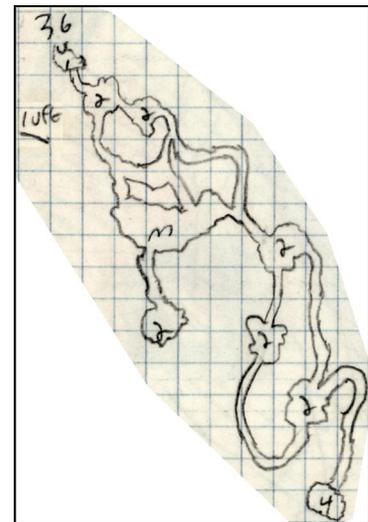

The circle is a silo, 30 feet high, with rotted grain, and d6+3 giant bats: AC6, HD2, hp 12, 11, 9, 7, At1, D1-4/round, save F1, N.

1. Table, with 4 people—mom, dad, son, daughter—sitting, eating, and talking noiselessly. The table, food, and silverware will appear real until taken 2 feet from the table. The people will not be able to be moved. If the table is broken (it is already rotted, but the illusion hides it) they will become skeletons, and the illusion will disappear: AC7, HD1, hp 3, 7, 7, 6, At1, D1-6, save F1, C.
2. Ladder to the bedroom: just some sheets and hay.
3. Pantry: a tarantella is in here: AC5, HD4, hp 24, At 1 bite, D1-8+poison, save F2, N. Victims must save vs. poison or start a frantic dance for 2d6 turns; they have a -4 on 'to hit', attackers get a +4, and onlookers save vs. spells or dance as long as the poisoned victim. There are some foodstuffs here, rotted and moldy, and webs.
4. Kitchen area: gas stove, no gas, but would still work if it had gas.*

db B 36) ZOMBIES!

- Zombies: AC8, HD2, hp 9, 4, 3, 12, 7, 10, At1, D1-8, save F1, C.
1. Looks like this is all there is. If secret doors are looked for, 2 ones for humans are needed. Only 1 one is needed for elves to find the secret doors.
 2. 9 zombies.
 3. 9 zombies.
 4. The door is secret. Inside, an amber golem: AC6, HD10, hp 56, At 2 claws, 1 bite, D2-12/2-12/2-20. The golem guards an Astral armor set and sword†.

Cave 37

This cave is empty.

* No idea what kind of gas or where they got it. Presumably it wasn't piped in to the middle of a monster-infested island.

† These are special magic items that I will hopefully find the description of so I can put it in the appendix.

DWARVES

db C 1. Whirlpool spout

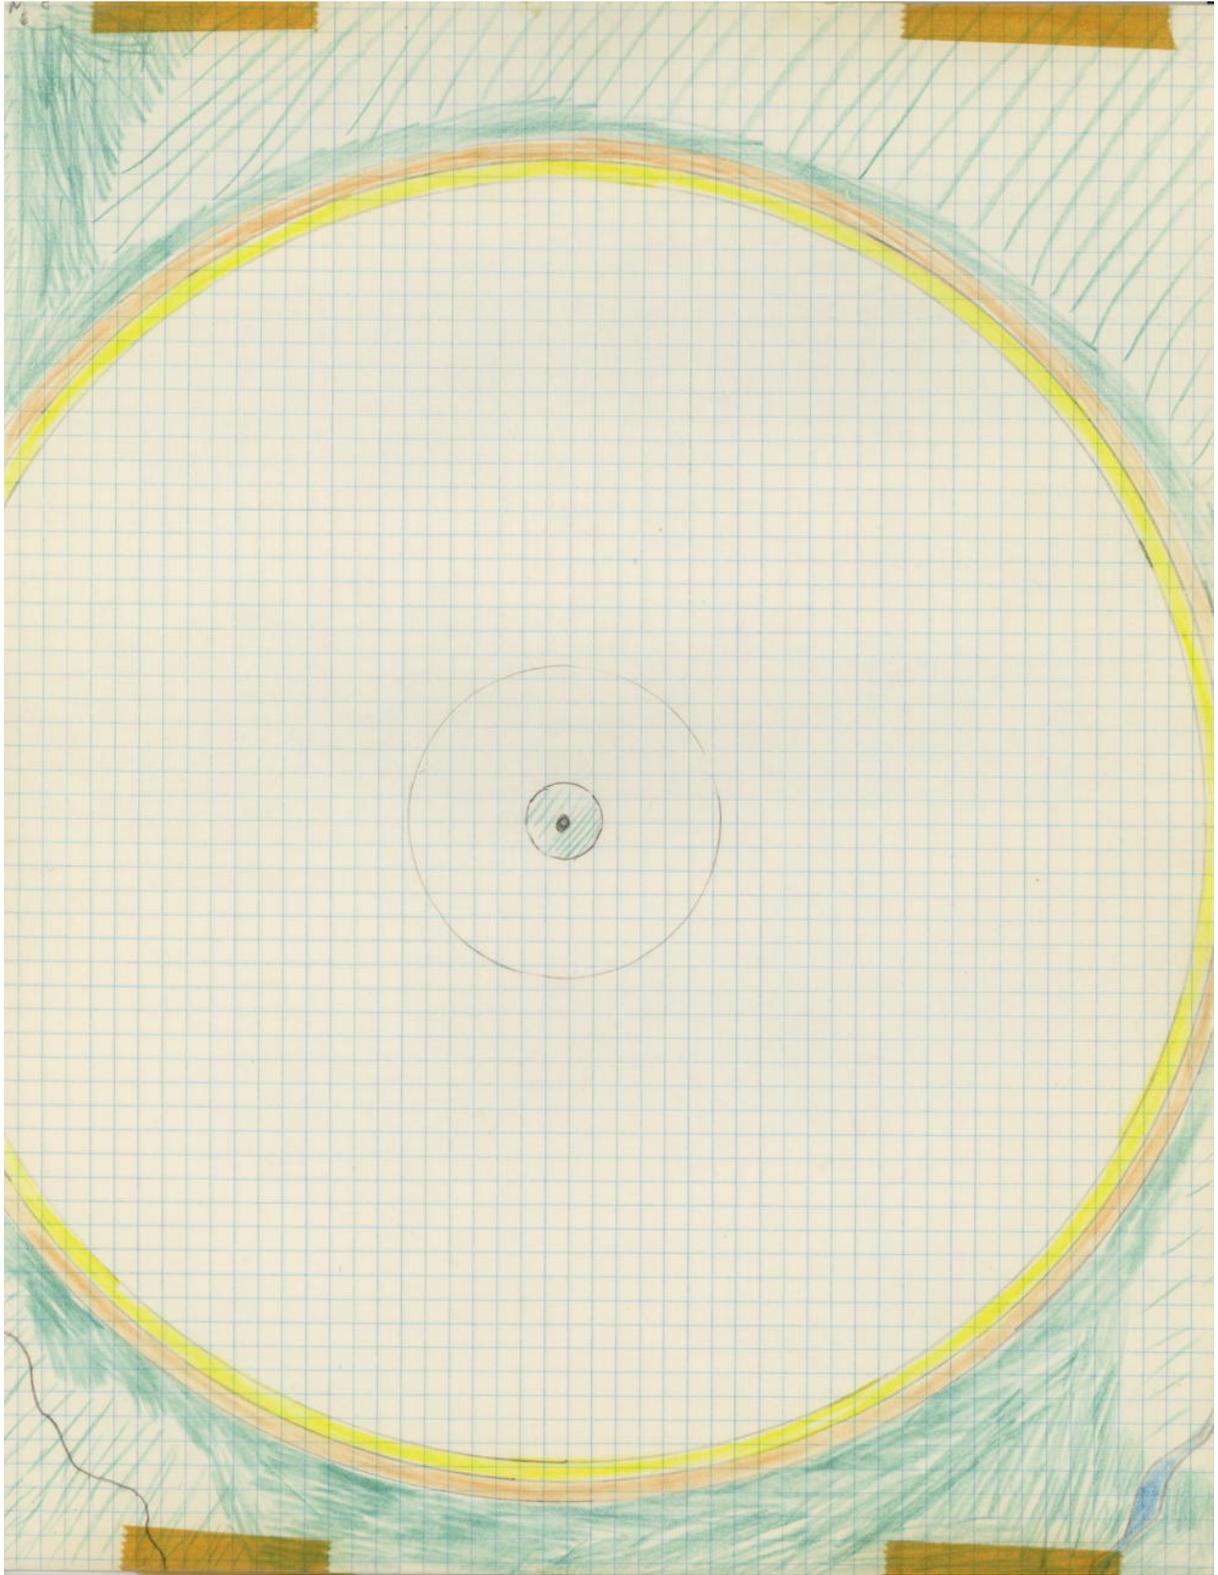

1. In this room is the whirlpool spout; many ships and skeletons but no treasure. Talking will bring the guard detail from room 2. The spout drains through to the lost world, but the holes are all less than a foot in diameter.
2. Dwarf guard. Leader: AC2, D6*, hp 31, At spear+1, D3-8, LG; Second leader: AC5 (shield+2, chain), D2, hp 14, At sword, D1-8, LG. Four soldiers with battleaxes and chain mail: AC5, D1, hp 7, 8, 6, 8, At 1, D1-8, LG. The doors are of heavy oak, as are the tables and chairs. In the southeast corner is a keg of strong ale. Some good food is on the table. At night, 2 of the dwarves are in room 4.
3. Kitchen/pantry. Lots of bread, meat, and a wood stove.
4. Bedroom. At night, 2 dwarves here, 4 in room 2.
5. King's waiting chamber. Three gold-backed inlaid oak chairs (150 gold pieces), and a gold and silvery tapestry showing a dwarven army overcoming an orcan horde (125 gold pieces).
6. King's chamber. Bed in southeast, closet in northeast (with clothes). Next to bed when not wearing them: plate

*Took a while to realize D6 and D2 weren't typos for "HD". This is Basic/Expert D&D: Dwarves are their own class.

- mail, shield, war hammer+3 (returns if thrown by dwarf). He always wears a ring+1.
7. King's treasure. 3,870 gold pieces, and a crystal ball with clairaudience.
 8. Ball room. Table in southwest, chandelier in center, kegs, etc.
 9. Kitchen.
 10. Rooms. $d4+1$ dwarves in each room, with $d20$ gold pieces: AC4 or 9, D1-4, etc.)
 11. Treasure room. 34,830 gold pieces, 6,429 platinum pieces. Guarded by two dwarves: AC4 (chain and shield), D3, hp 22, At hammer, D1-6, NG; and AC1 (chain and shield+1), D4, hp 30, At sword, D1-8, NG.

BROWN CIRCLE

Only a lawful good may pass over this wall. Upon climbing off or jumping off, chaotics and neutrals will find themselves back on the other side. Even those allowed will only be able to get across 33% of the time.

YELLOW CIRCLE

Fire, and flames up to 25 feet. Anyone trying to go through here takes 4-16 points of damage per round. It counts as magical fire. A running person would be able to do it in one round.

WHITE AREA (SNOW)

Unprotected characters in the cold here will take 1-8 points of damage every 6 turns. There is also a 6 in 20 chance every 50 feet for each to fall through a pit-portal, then roll d6 for where they 'land'.

1. 6-way crossing (DB)
2. Northwest of vortex (DB)
3. Cemetary opening (DC)
4. Top of pyramid (FB)
5. Coast of vampire town (GB)
6. In the moat at the castle.

When within the small circle, magical high winds and snow will hit them.

WANDERING MONSTERS

- Bandits: 50%, and if on hill where their cave is, 75%; see sheet.
- 2d4 gnolls: AC5, HD2, hp 6, 9, 15, 13, At 1 sword, D2-9, save F2, C.
- d4 vampires: AC2, HD7 (hp 26, 30, 29, 25), HD8 (hp 40, 30, 47, 44), HD9 (hp 42, 36, 45,27), At touch, D1-10+2 levels, save F7-9, C. Can charm at -2 all who meet their gaze.

DESCRIPTION

fb A) Bandit's lair

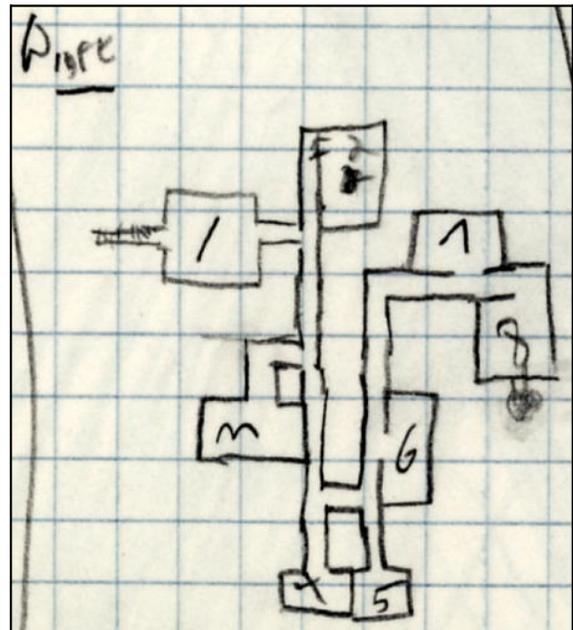

1. Trap room. All except 3 feet from wall is wood, covered with dirt, which will break on 1,610 coins. It is 10 feet deep, and persons will take 2d4 points of damage. There is a 1 in 6 chance that a Dwarf will off-hand notice the difference in dirt color. Noise will bring guards from room 3 in one round.
2. Natural gas chamber. Natural gas comes in near entrance, goes out near back. It is odorless and colorless, and will not light*. Anyone in here for 2d6+1 rounds will fall asleep, dying in d4 turns.
3. Guard room. 1 level 5 bandit, 5 level 3 bandits.
4. Level 3 room. d20 level 3 fighters, no greater than 15 of them.
5. Level 5 room. d4-1 level 5 fighters.
6. Level 12 room. 60% chance that the level 12 bandit will be here.
7. Treasure room. 1,059 platinum pieces, 4 diamond rings (2*600 gold pieces, 700 gold pieces, 450 gold pieces), 6 emeralds (70 gold pieces, 3*50 gold pieces, 2*110 gold pieces), pearl necklace (400 gold pieces), locket (25 gold pieces), 2 gold-threaded necklaces (75 gold pieces), 428 copper pieces, 139 silver pieces, 260 gold pieces, and a spell scroll of mirror image. The secret doors are crude, so there is a 2 in 6 chance to see them.

fb B) Unknown gods

Nothing here except toppled pillars, fallen walls, and smashed statues of unknown gods. In the center, however, is an old stairwell, leading down about 20 feet east. The walls are marble, with weird inlaid designs. The doors all have been smashed.

1. Next to the walls in this room are 21 statues, defaced, but still standing, and similar to the ones outside. Behind the middle statue on the east is a scroll of protection from lycanthropes, which the gnolls know about. There are 8 gnolls: AC5, HD2, hp 5, 10, 7, 10, 11, 6, 8, 14, At sword, D2-9, save F2, C.
2. The door to this room is secret, and kept by the gnolls since this is their treasure room. 2,559 gold pieces, 2,336 copper pieces, 50 silver pieces. There's also a marble altar.
3. d6-1 gnolls (same as room 1, without swords, D2-8). On the west wall is a large picture, showing an aerial fight twixt the gods of which the statues are made, and some evil-looking characters. Under the fight is a temple.

* Damn, for a moment I thought this might be where the dead farm family got the gas for its stove.

4. 5 gnolls (as room 3). Nothing here but bones, rotted food, and rags.
5. No gnolls. There is a statue of an awful evil-looking person. Anyone looking at it will have an 11% chance of being cursed each time. Anyone trying to take out his ruby eyes will take 4d6 points from lightning (1/2 if save vs. spells). This will also happen if they attempt to mar it. It can do it as many times as it “wants”.
6. 4 gnolls, as in room 3. There is an altar in here, but it has rotted food, bones, etc., on it. Inside it is a ring of spell storing. It will appear out for a chaotic evil wizard. It currently has the spells flesh to stone, animate dead (twice), curse, and wall of fire, at the level of the user.
7. 5 gnolls, 50% for each to have a sword, but as room 3. There are also pictures of the fight again, in mural form.
8. The leader and 3 gnoll guards are in here. The leader always carries a potion of delusion which he thinks is of invisibility. If the party looks too strong, he will try it and attempt to sneak out. Leader: AC2 (shield+2), HD3, hp 16, At scimitar, D2-9, save F2, C. Guards: AC5, HD2, hp 14, 14, 15, At sword, D2-9, save F2, C. In the southwest corner is a rope of climbing. On the south wall is a spiral, 5-foot diameter. If 6 points or more is done to it at one time, in the center (AC8), it will break the entire wall, freeing the demons stuck below. If a person is wearing the ring from room 6, he will be forced to open it, with a +3 ‘to hit’.

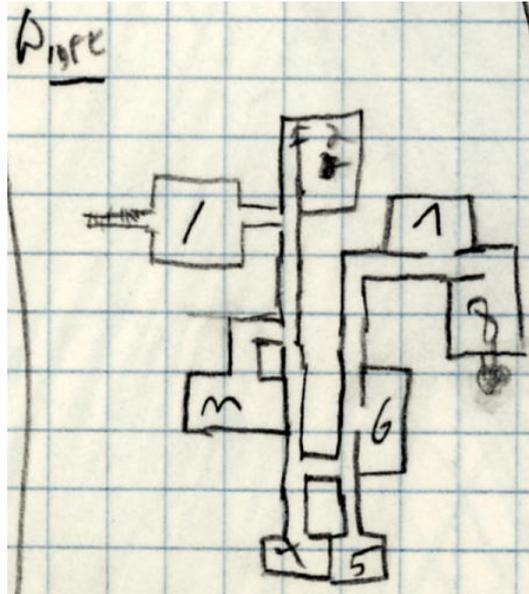

fb C) Pyramid top

About 25 feet above ground. The walls are about 8 feet thick. The entrance is 7 feet below ground, on the north side, in the middle of the wall.*

* I'm guessing the reason I never mapped it is, what's the point? No one's getting in. I did leave a lot of room on that graph paper for fb C—fb A and fb B were tiny little maps in the lower corner.

MAP GB

GB B A) RUINS*

The ruins here consist of fallen buildings, toppled statues, and pillars. In the center, however, one of the buildings is still up, albeit weatherbeaten. It is only about 6 feet by 8 feet by 8 feet. Inside is the entrance to a stairwell. The building will not let any evil people in. Lawful good characters will have a 6 in 6 chance of getting in. Neutral goods will have a 3 in 6 chance, and chaotic goods a 1 in 6 chance of being let in. Lawful neutrals will also have 1 in 6, and Neutral Neutrals have 2 in 6. A force field will top those who cannot enter. No non-intelligents will be let in.

1. In this room there are 21 statues (9x9x3). There is a 40% chance that the middle of the 3 in the east will talk once, warning that “the balance of the temples must be kept”. This chance will increase if the demons are loose. The others can then each be asked one question. They are the guardians of the temple, and will answer in riddles. The room is lit by a magical blue light. The roof looks like it shows deep into space. The doors are solid oak, and will open automatically.
2. The door is secret. Inside, Magic Lights flicker from a candle which never goes out, and doesn't exist in this plane. In front of the candle, on the marble altar, is a crystal ball of dimension viewing.
3. A giant picture is on the west wall of this room, depicting a fight between some of the gods whose statues are in room 1, and some demonic-type characters.
4. In here is a cleric's ghost. If there is a lawful good cleric in the party, it will beckon him to come forward, then push all the others out with a force field, closing the door. The ghost will then ask the cleric some test questions to see if he is deserving (Who is your god? Have you ever killed anybody? Why? How much money do you have? What do you intend to do with it? etc.) The ghost will also be able to take into consideration any actions that occurred while in this temple, and has a 55% chance of detecting lies. If the cleric 'passes' the test, the ghost will ask him to take off his armor (he must trust him to do this—this is the last test). He will then take off his robe and give this to the cleric, along with this staff. The robe is a robe of teleportation (once every hour, AC3, 5 pockets each holding 350 coins in a 1 foot by 1 foot by 1 foot space), and the staff is a staff of healing. The cleric will find himself out in the hallway, and the room will no longer exist. Otherwise, the force field will push the cleric out into the hallway (opening the door†), then close the door for good for them. Anyone pushed out with the force field must roll under their dexterity or be unconscious for d6 turns.
5. In the middle of this room is a statue, with blue gems for eyes. The eyes emanate a cool blue light, which lights the entire room. Anyone completely entering will regain all hit points, and the effects of newly acquired experience points. Anyone trying to take out the eyes will be teleported to the entrance, taking as damage half the hit points that they have left, and will not be allowed in again.
6. There is an altar in the middle of this room. Ordinary light is coming from nowhere. If a lawful good wizard

* There is no such map. This is almost certainly map fb B: both the chaotic evil and lawful good temples are then the same.

† If I didn't include this parenthetical, would I have assumed they were crushed against the door? Or would they have left adventurer-shaped holes in the door, like in a cartoon?

comes to it, a ring of spell storing will appear for him from inside the altar. It has the spells stone to flesh, remove curse, wall of ice, contact higher plane, and detect evil, at the level of the user.

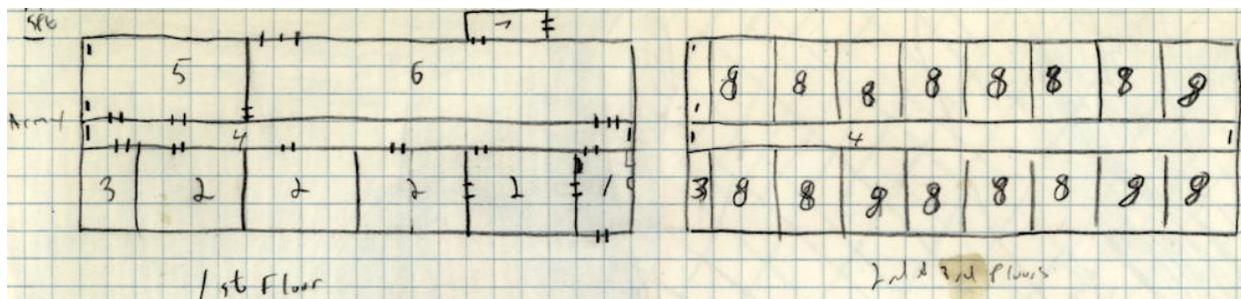

7. More pictures of the fight, in mural form.
8. On the south wall is a spiral, from which golden light is emanating. If it is hit for 76 or more points at once, it will disintegrate the entire wall, letting loose the gods. If the demons have been let loose, and the ring from room 6 is on someone, it will tell in empathy about the fight, and how to let the gods loose.

ISLAND

Wandering monsters

- Lizard men (see mainland, above).
- 1 Aranea (see map AB for details).

Description

The small squares are lizard-men mounds, with d10+10 lizard men, 1/3 women, 1/4 kids, d4 copper pieces per male. See mainland for description.

Quicksand

In the quicksand, every 50 feet each person must roll under wisdom unless probing ahead, or be caught in the sand. They will fall to 1/3 of their height first, then go at 1 foot per round. One character with strength of 14 can pull a normal victim out, and two with total of 19 can also. They must use a rope or pole, etc.*

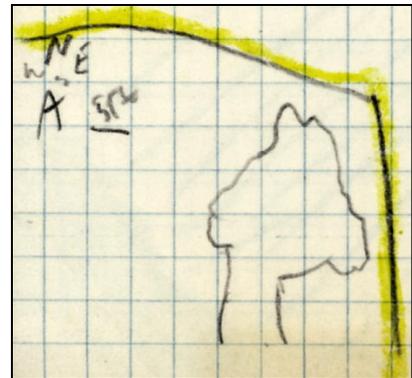

Lizard men caves

ac A 1 Guard cave

10 lizard men: AC5, HD2+1, hp 14, 9, 9, 12, 10, 8, 9, 11, 10, 7, At scimitar, D2-9. Each has d6 copper pieces and d4-1 gold pieces.

ac A 2 Guard cave

10 lizard men, as in guard cave 1. They use battleaxes, except the hp 14 one who uses a sword+1.

* What is this "quicksand" of which you speak? The only thing I can think of is that on the map there is some sand color mixed with water color. That must be what I used to denote the quicksand area.

ac B 3 Lizard man castle/center

1 story.

1. Entrance room. Guarded by 2 lizard men: AC4 (shield), HD2+1, hp 13, 12, At spear, D2-7, save F2, N.
2. King's guard's quarters. 11 lizard men as in room 1, above, in each. Plus one leader in each, who gets a +1 on 'to hit'. The leader in 2a has a shield+1 (AC3) and axe+2 (at+3, D4-12), and the leader in 2b has a shield+3 (AC1) and a normal sword (at+1, D2-9). In room 2a is a hole, covered by rags and lizard food and drink, with 50 gold pieces, 33 copper pieces, and 25 silver pieces. In room 2b is a hole to the outside, used mainly by their pet draco: AC5, HD4+2, hp 15, At 1 bite, D1-10, save F3, N. There is a 10% chance it will be there, and a 9% chance every round that it will arrive.
3. 'Party room'. Candles on walls light this room.
4. Kitchen. There are two cooks, non-attacking, in here.
5. The king's advisor. Lizard man Magic-User, level 5: AC3, HS2+1, hp 10, At 1 dagger or spell or wand, D2-5 or spell or paralyzation, save MU3, N. Spells: detect magic, magic missile, levitate, web, and invisibility 10 foot radius. The curtains are of a cheap, expensive-looking material: red inlaid with gold. On the table, along with his magic books, is a potion of control animal and he also has a wand of paralyzation.
6. The King's room. The king: AC5, HD4, hp 25, At axe+1, D2-9, save F4, N. He wears a ring of regeneration that restores 1 hit point per round. In the north is a chest of drawers with the king's ancestor's bones.

*I can't find the number of charges. Wands have 1d10 charges per the basic set, so how about... 1. What an ugly roll!

- d6 wild boar: AC7, HD3, hp 11, 8, 9, 19, At tusk, D2-8, save F2, N.

SLIGHTLY RUNDOWN SHACK

The door is wizard-locked, 5th level. On the book shelf are books, completely faded and unreadable. The pot is filled with a weird liquid and weird ingredients. If the wood under the pot is lit, the lighter will be able to ask 'the greater powers' one question.

Hanging on the west wall is Madrigal, the living lantern.

In the closet (wizard-locked at level 4) is a sword, chained to the floor. If the sword is let loose it will either attack or run (probably attack): AC-4, HD5, hp 23, At 1 at +3, D1-8 (turns lawfuls to stone, save vs. spells), save F5, CE. Only one person can attack it at a time (the person it attacks). It can change person at any time without losing a round. If defeated, it will break in half, continually, until nothing is left.

* I hope I can find Madrigal's description. It was a talking lantern with special powers. I liked talking things the characters could get and carry with them. It lets me have a voice without having a GMPC. There is a talking skull in the caves of the Valley of the Azure Sun that serves the same purpose. Like Bob of Bainbridge.

* Or what?

THE TOWN: RIKLADNA

The town can muster an army of 40-50 level 1-3 fighters, plus the mayor, guards, and clerics.

dc B 1) Mayor's house

The mayor wears a ring of x-ray vision. AC9 or 1, F5, At sword+1, D2-9, LN. He gets the AC1 if he's in his plate mail and shield, and he's got a dexterity bonus of 1.

- Three guards in chain and shield: AC4/4/3, F3, hp 18, 22, 21, At zombie battleaxe/sword/sword, D1-8, N. The second guard has a potion of treasure finding (he doesn't know what it is) and a scroll of protection from undead. The third guard has a crossbow with 22 bolts and a +1 due to dexterity. At night, there will only be two, and one will have the crossbow. The other will be sleeping.
- Guard's quarters. There are three drawers in the desk, each with a different lock. Drawer 1 (top) has 30 gold pieces, 10 silver pieces, 5 copper pieces, and a novel. Drawer 2 (middle) has 40 gold pieces and 20 copper pieces. Drawer 3 (bottom) has 3 platinum pieces, 10 gold pieces, and a wand of polymorph. Each drawer belongs to a different guard, and each guard carries his key.
- Hallway.
- Dining room.
- Kitchen. The cook is a normal man.
- Mayor's room. In the desk are papers, 10 gold pieces, and 30 copper pieces. The rug, showing a holy symbol, is worth 60 gold pieces. In the secret room is 60 platinum pieces, 100 gold pieces, 300 copper pieces, 400 silver pieces, 250 electrum pieces, and a broom of flying.

* You know what would be cool? If this is a novel that the guard is writing. "My life as a minion of chaotic clerics: the story of a human guard with a zombie battleaxe."

dc C 2) Church*Worship area*

1. Entrance. Brilliant red rug, over entire floor, with a gray one in front for feet. A statue of Zeus is in the south corner, and a collection box (1-10 copper pieces, 1-6 silver pieces) in the north corner.
2. Storage rooms. Old statues, robes, etc. Way in the corner of room a, under rags and statues, is a crystal ball of time vision, completely forgotten about.
3. Hall-type room. Stairs go to basement.
4. Behind the altar is the Olympic pantheon*. On it is a silver bowl (10 gold pieces) with 8 vials of holy water. There are also 3 candles (2 feet) in gold holders (75 gold pieces) on each side of the altar.

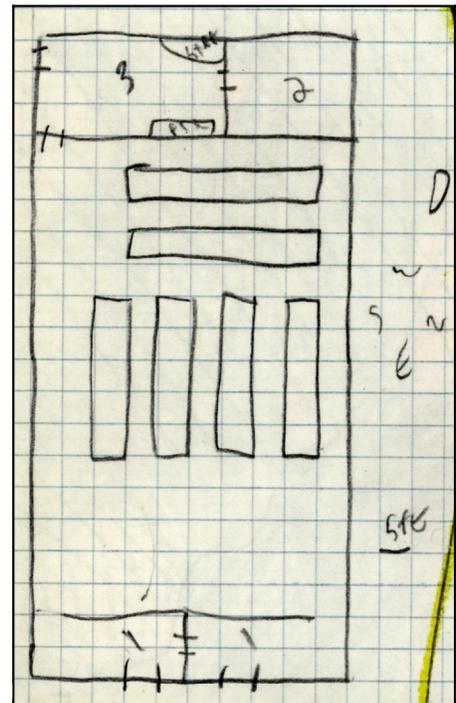

Church basement

1. Lama's room: AC9 (-1: plate+1, shield+2), C8, hp 47, At war hammer, D1-6, LG. Spells: cure light wounds, remove fear, resist cold, bless, resist fire, speak with animals, cure disease, remove curse, curse serious wounds, neutralize poison, and dispel evil. The lama always carries his potion of invisibility, staff of healing, a spell scroll of detect magic, and a spell scroll of protection from evil.
2. Church's store room. Chain mail, 500 gold pieces, 35 platinum pieces, 1,000 copper pieces, which the lama gives to those who need it.
3. Vicar's room: AC9 (3: chain+1, shield), C4, hp 20, At mace+2, D3-8, LN. Spells: light, cure light wounds, and hold person. The vicar has a scroll of raise dead.

dc D 3) Great hall

The great hall seats 70 people.

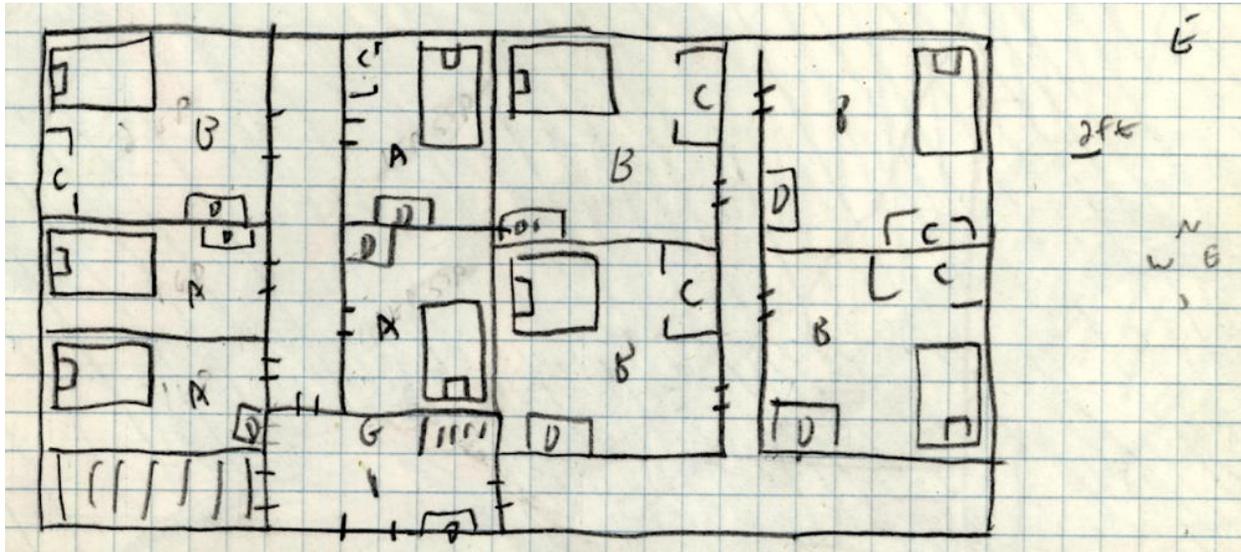

1. Coat room.
2. Pantry. Lots of food, preserved.
3. Kitchen.
4. Tavern. Prices: Ale, 2 ep; small beer, 2 sp; wine, 3 ep; tea, 1 sp; bread, 1 sp/slice; pudding, 1 sp/bowl, soup, 2 sp/bowl, stew, 2cp/bowl†, roast fowl, 1 gp; roast joint, 2 gp; hot pie, 1 ep; cheese, 2 sp/wedge; fruit, 1 gp.
5. Stores. Sell as per rulebook: food, items, and transport. Sell at 3/4: used weapons, used armor.

* I'm guessing that there are statues of the Olympic pantheon behind the altar. Or paintings. Not the actual gods sitting there waiting for adventurers to show up. Though with this adventure, you can't be certain.

† A bowl of stew is cheaper than a slice of bread. No sopping in this town, it's a waste of money.

dc E 6) "House of the Rising Sun"

Room 1 is where visitors check in. The guard is a 4th level fighter mercenary: AC-3 (plate+3, shield, dexterity 16), F4, hp 22, At sword+1, strength 15, D3-10, N. He has a ring of invisibility and a medallion of ESP 90 feet. The man at the desk is a normal person, and checks people in, finding out discreetly which services the customer wants. The stairs go down to the women's quarters.

Room prices are (A) 1 gp; (B) 3 gp; plus approximately 20 gp for extra.†

The second story is the same as the first, except for check-in.

MAZE

Wandering monsters

There's only one wandering "monster" within: a platoon of skeletons.

- Leader: AC1 (plate), HD2, hp 14, At two-handed sword, D1-10, save F2, C.
- 15 main fighters: AC0 (plate, shield), HD1, hp 7, 6, 7, 6, 7, 6, 4, 6, 4, 6, 7, 6, 5, 3, 8, At sword, D1-8, save F1, C.
- 4 archers: AC5 (leather), HD1, hp 4, 5, 6, 7, At bow or short sword, D1-6, save F1, C. The archers have 5 arrows each.

Description

The walls of the maze cannot be climbed, and a grappling hook would slide.

Upon entering the surface of the maze, one of two red dragons will come in 2-24 rounds: AC-1, HD10, 12, hp 48, 72, At 2 claws/1 bite, D1-8/1-8/4-32 or fire (hp), save F10, F12, C.

The first dragon has the spells charm person, sleep (2), ESP, invisibility, mirror image, hold person, protection from normal missiles, and haste. It also has a scroll of protection from normal missiles, and a scroll of wall of fire.

The second dragon has the spells charm person, sleep, detect magic, web, phantasmal force, detect invisible, dispel magic, and hold person (2). It also has a scroll of wizard eye.

* I believe it was the Animals version that inspired this location.

† Extra what? Oh, wait, I see. There are two different room sizes, and the bigger ones cost more.

While in the maze, the party will periodically hear a low moaning, a shrill whine, a faint thumping, or a faint shuffling coming from the walls.

Every 600 feet, one person may be polymorphed if he doesn't save vs. spells. They will be completely, except for thinking, changed. All equipment that will not fit their new form will disappear, to return 2-12 turns later when the person returns to normal. Creatures:

1. white ape
2. tiger beetle
3. boar, wild
4. carrion crawler
5. doppelganger
6. white dragon (talks, 3 spells)
7. centaur
8. cockatrice
9. ferret, giant
10. gargoyle
11. gray ooze
12. harpy
13. elephant
14. horned chameleon
15. pegasus
16. black widow
17. troglodyte
18. unicorn
19. rakasta (no iron claws)
20. weasel, giant

At the center of the spiral is a 14th level neutral magic user. He will probably let them go in exchange for something embarrassing: AC8 (6 hand-to-hand), MU14, hp 29, At dagger or wand of paralysis or spell, D1-4 or effect, N. He wears a ring+1 and a displacer cloak, so saves get +1 and spell/wand/stone an extra +2, and hand-to-hand attacks are at a -2 to hit. He also has a helm of fire resistance, a potion of healing, a scroll of protection from elementals, a wand of paralysis (7 charges), and a wand of metal detection. His spells are: ventriloquism, charm person, shield, floating disc, detect invisible, invisibility, mirror image, phantasmal force, fly, hold person, clairvoyance, lightning bolt, polymorph others, remove curse, dimension door, confusion, teleport, transmute rock to mud, feeblemind, control weather, geas, and reincarnation. He is also protected by the two dragons.

Locations

1. Vault #1. 50 copper pieces, 10,369 silver pieces, 1,055 electrum pieces, 2,021 gold pieces, 61 platinum pieces, sword+1, spell scroll of infravision and charm monster, 4 peridots (200 gold pieces), 6 marine stones (100 gold pieces). The tunnel opening is 3 feet by 3 feet but opens to a 5 foot by 5 foot area.
2. Vault #2. 60 copper pieces, 14,055 silver pieces, 993 electrum pieces, 2,021 gold pieces, 49 platinum pieces, sword+1 +3 vs. enchanted monsters, bag of devouring, 2 rubies (150 gold pieces), 1 diamond ring (200 gold pieces).
3. Dragon lair. The two dragons live here. Their treasure is 1,101 copper pieces, 14,164 silver pieces, 39,022 electrum pieces, 300 gold pieces, and 25 platinum pieces. In the chest (600 coins) is a potion of healing, a ring of invisibility, a sword -1 cursed, a sword +1 +3 vs. enchanted creatures, a ring of sailing knowledge, and a sword+1 casts light on command.

SMALL LAKE

The small lake in the northwest has a maximum depth of 160 feet. Near the path at the edge of the water, but under leaves, is a skeleton wearing a ring of water breathing. There's a 1 in 6 chance of finding it if looking.

At the 'X', 60 feet under water, is a small galley, guarded by 15 skeletons: AC7, HD1, hp 5, 2, 4, 4, 3, 5, 8, 1, 4, 2, 4, 4, 3, 6, 4, At 1, D1-6, save F1, C. In the ship, everything is rotted and under mud except for the forward hull.

Inside the forward hull is a 500 gold piece chest (1,500 coins) with 400 gold pieces, 300 silver pieces, 600 copper pieces, and 100 platinum pieces. There is also a box of 50 purple amethysts (50 gold pieces).

Under the mud is another chest, red, with gold inlaid (1,000 gold pieces, 2,000 coins), with a lot of padding inside and a 6-potion holder. One is broken and empty. The others are: a potion of polymorph self, a potion of fire resistance, a potion of clairvoyance, a potion of growth, and a potion of invisibility.

Under that is nothing but wood and bones. Upon leaving, if they took anything, 15 skeletons will be in front, 15 behind, and 15 on each side, for a total of 60. Only two skeletons will fight against each person, each being replaced as it dies—the dead skeletons become water.

There are also herd animals that the dragons feed on: deer and antelope.

* What, like the back seat of a Volkswagen?

HADGKOL, DWARF STRONGHOLD

dca† A Dwarven army

The halls are 10 feet by 10 feet. The breakdown of the army is:

Level	Commands	Total

Everyone in the cone must also save vs. spells or be deafened for one turn. It can only be used once per turn.
2. Mess hall. If it is morning, noon, or evening, there will be 100 unarmed dwarves eating.

5. Bunkers. Each room has 12 bunks (6 per side). The west bed, to the north, is the myrmidon leader's†. The others are his men—sword masters. The beds have 3 feet of space under them for personal effects. The

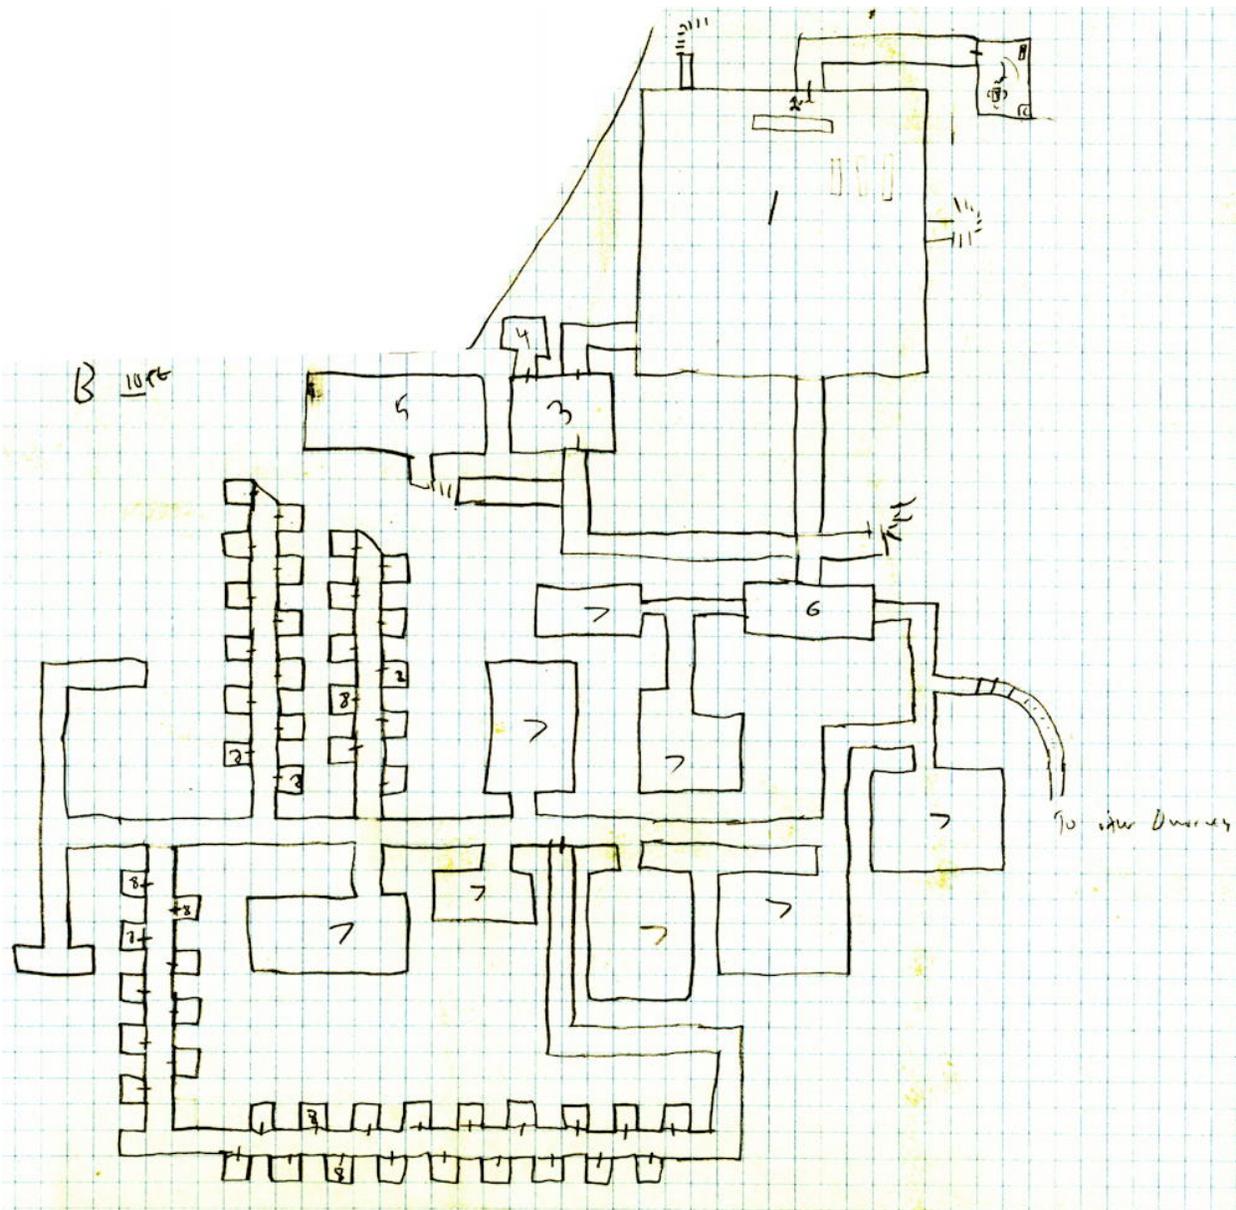

† The three letters indicate that this, while part of map DC, is not on the back of section DC but rather is on a completely separate sheet of paper. This is, then, map A on the first (a) extra sheet for map section DC.

† "Myrmidon" here refers to the level name; a myrmidon is a 6th level fighter. Superhero, swordmaster, swashbuckler, and champion are also level names myrmidon will have d20 of each coin. The men will have 2d8. Rooms are 30 feet by 10 feet. D4 of the d12 dwarves will be armed. During mealtimes, the numbers are halved. Myrmidons and swordmasters use chain and shield, and war hammers. 3 of the swordmasters use leather armor, bow, and short swords.

6. Officer's mess. At meal times, there will be 9-d4 superheroes and 17-d8 myrmidons here.
7. Entrance guard room. One champion: AC2 (chain mail and shield+2), D7, hp 54, At sword+1 cast light, D2-9, LG; and two swashbucklers: AC3 (chain mail and shield), D3, hp 35, At war hammer+2, D2-8, LG; AC 4 (chain mail, shield, and dexterity), D3, hp 27, At war hammer+1 at +3-1 (ring of blindness and hearing), D5-10, LG. The first swashbuckler has a ring of control human. There are also four warriors here: AC3 (chain mail and shield), D1, hp 5, 7, 9, 9, At war hammer, D1-6, LG; the third warrior uses a mace+1 so does 2-7 points damage. A fifth warrior will run to warn the others if it looks as though the guards will lose: AC7 (leather), D1, hp 9, At sword, D1-8, LG. Each of the 4 warriors has a short bow and 12 arrows.

MAP EC

Cemetery walls are 10 foot high, 2 foot thick rock. The forest to the south of it holds black widows (see location DC). For plains animals, see location DC also. The Keep walls are 30 feet high, 10 feet thick.

SQUARE TOWER (SKELETONS)

50 feet high, 40 foot by 40 foot sides, 10 foot stories. See map on back of map EC for tower*. Anyone dying in this tower will become an intelligent skeleton. They keep hit points (but can be cured only magically, or 1 hit point every three days) and fight as a skeleton of Hit Dice equal to their hit points divided by 5. They save as a fighter the same level as their hit dice. They keep all equipment, so their AC drops by 2. They can keep alignment. Their skin disperses.

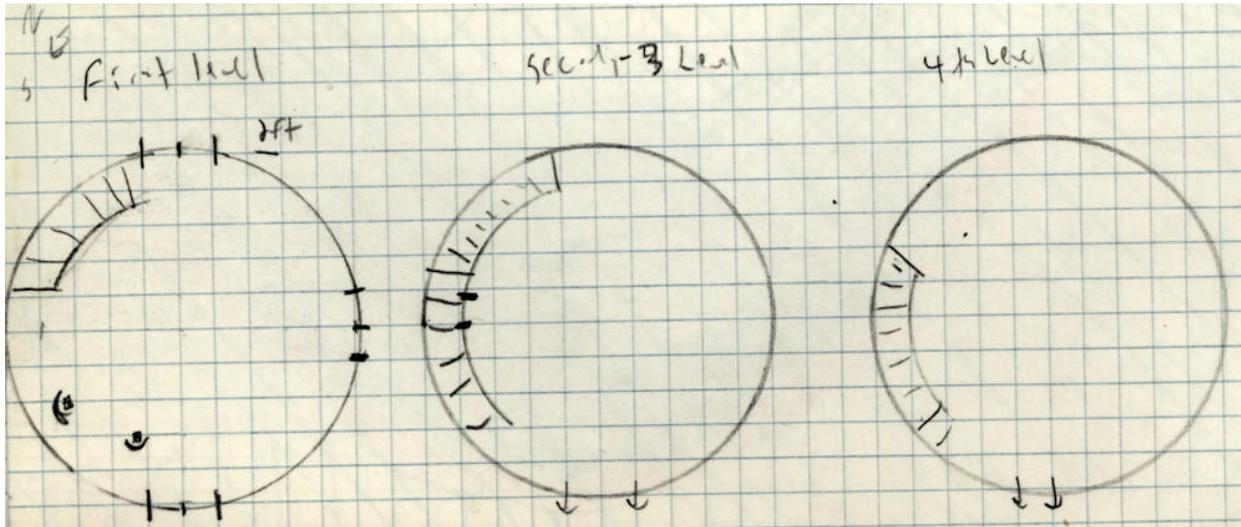

1. Seven skeletons: AC7, HD1, hp 5, 6, 7, 1, 7, 4, 6, At spear, D1-6, save F1, C.
2. Three skeletons: AC5 (leather), HD1, hp 3, 6, 6, At sword, D1-8, save F1, C.
3. Empty.
4. Empty.
5. 3 skeletons: AC7, HD1, hp 7, 5, 3, At 1, D1-6, save F1, C. Five packs of 5 rats: AC9, hD1/8, At 1 bite/pack, D1-6+disease and knock down, save NM, N. Victims of a knock-down attack must save vs. death or be

* Perhaps I don't understand the previous abbreviations after all. That should have been as simple as typing "ec" next to the description.

knocked down and take a round to get up.

6. Empty.
7. 1 skeleton: AC7, HD2, hp 16, At sword or spell, D1-8 or spell, save F3, C. Its spells are one each of sleep, charm, and cause light wounds. It is protected by 2 skeletons: AC2 (chain mail and shield), HD1, hp 8, 8, At sword, D1-8, save F2, C. All three wear an amulet of protection from turning. The skeletons are at the southwest wall, and gain +1 to initiative.

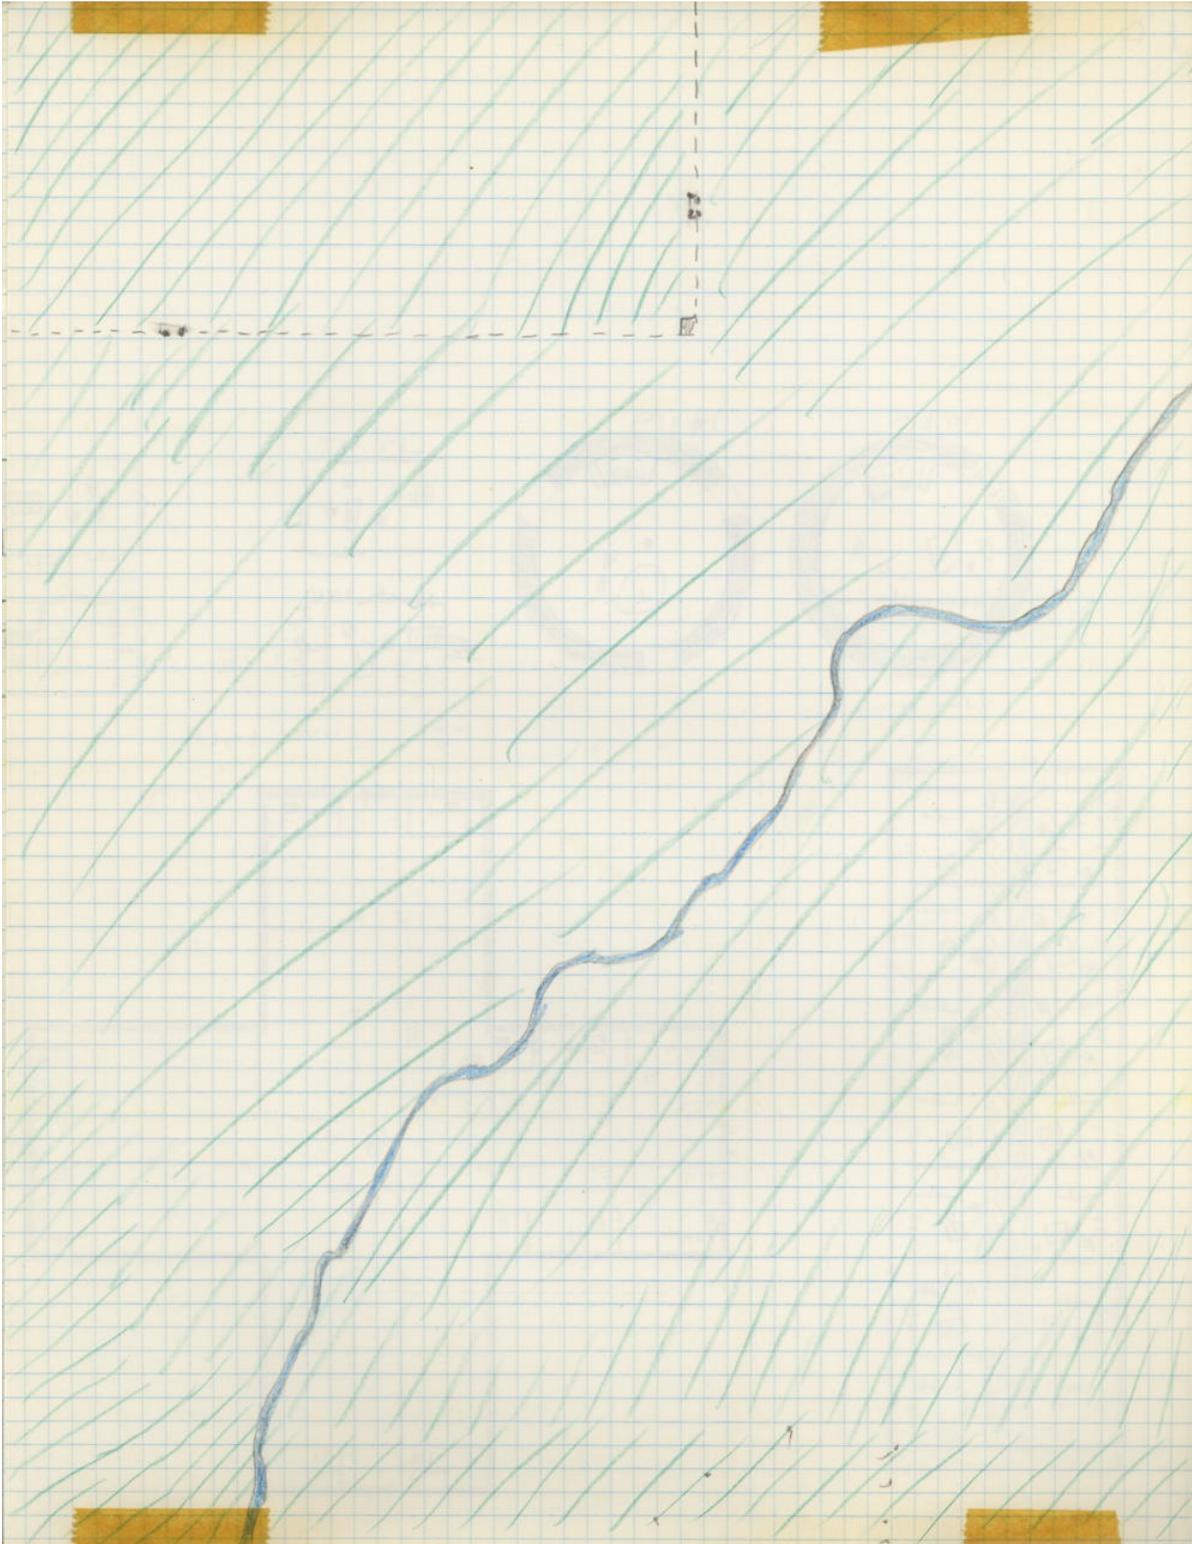

Flanking towers

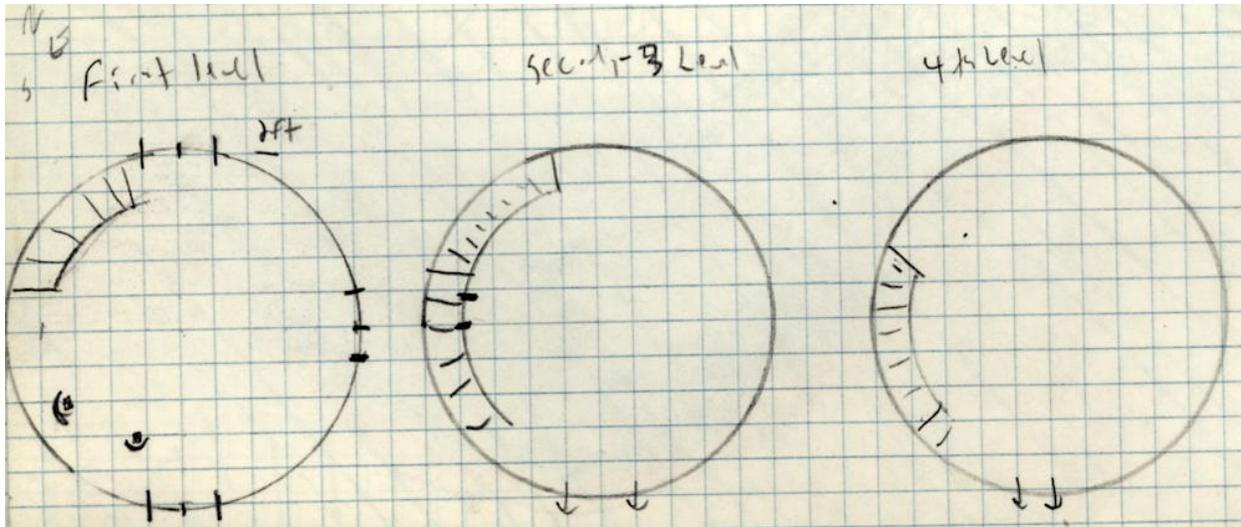

The towers are 20 feet in diameter, four stories, for 50 feet up (10 feet inside per story). There are various skeletons in rusted armor in each room. In the top story of the north tower is, among other rusted ones, a magic +3 chaotic evil sword with intelligence 15 and ego 12. This sword will not get a +3 against fights within Erression's walls, but a 'to hit' at +3 more than needed will bring automatic double damage. This sword does no damage vs. other evils.

* Erression. Isn't that where the reconstituted damsel-in-distress wanted to go?

MAP FC

The flanking towers are the same as above, except without any magic.

WANDERING ENCOUNTERS

For herd animals, see map DC.

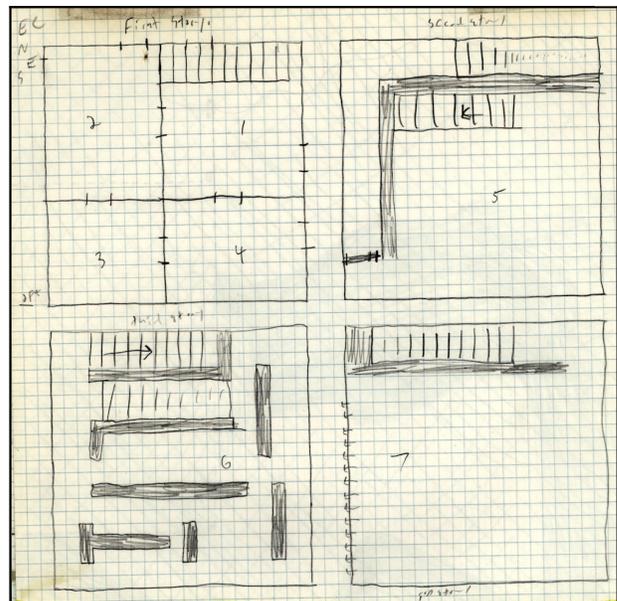

- Gnolls: AC5, HD2, hp 8, 3, 6, 11, At scimitar or sword or axe, D2-9, save F2, C.
- Stirges: AC7, HD1, At 1 'hook' then suck, D1-3 per round, save F2, N.

SQUARE TOWER (ZOMBIES)

The square tower uses the map on the back of map EC.

People dying in here change to zombies, as above.

1. Seven zombies: AC8, HD2, hp 16, 3, 6, 7, 11, 7, 12, At spear, D1-6, save F1, C.
2. Three zombies: AC6 (leather), HD2, hp 14, 12, 8, At sword, D1-8, save F1, C.
3. Empty.
4. Empty.
5. Three zombies in here: AC8, HD2, hp 13, 8, 7, At 1, D1-8, save F1, C. Also, 5 packs of 5 rats: AC9, HD1/8, At 1 bite per pack, D1-6+disease+fall, save NM, N.
6. Empty.
7. One zombie: AC8, HD4, hp 32, At sword or spell, D1-8 or spell, save F5, C. Its spells are two of cause light wounds. It is protected by 2 zombies: AC3 (chain mail and shield), HD2, hp 16 At sword, D1-8, save F2, C. All three wear an amulet of protection from turning. They are by the southwest wall, and gain +1 to initiative.

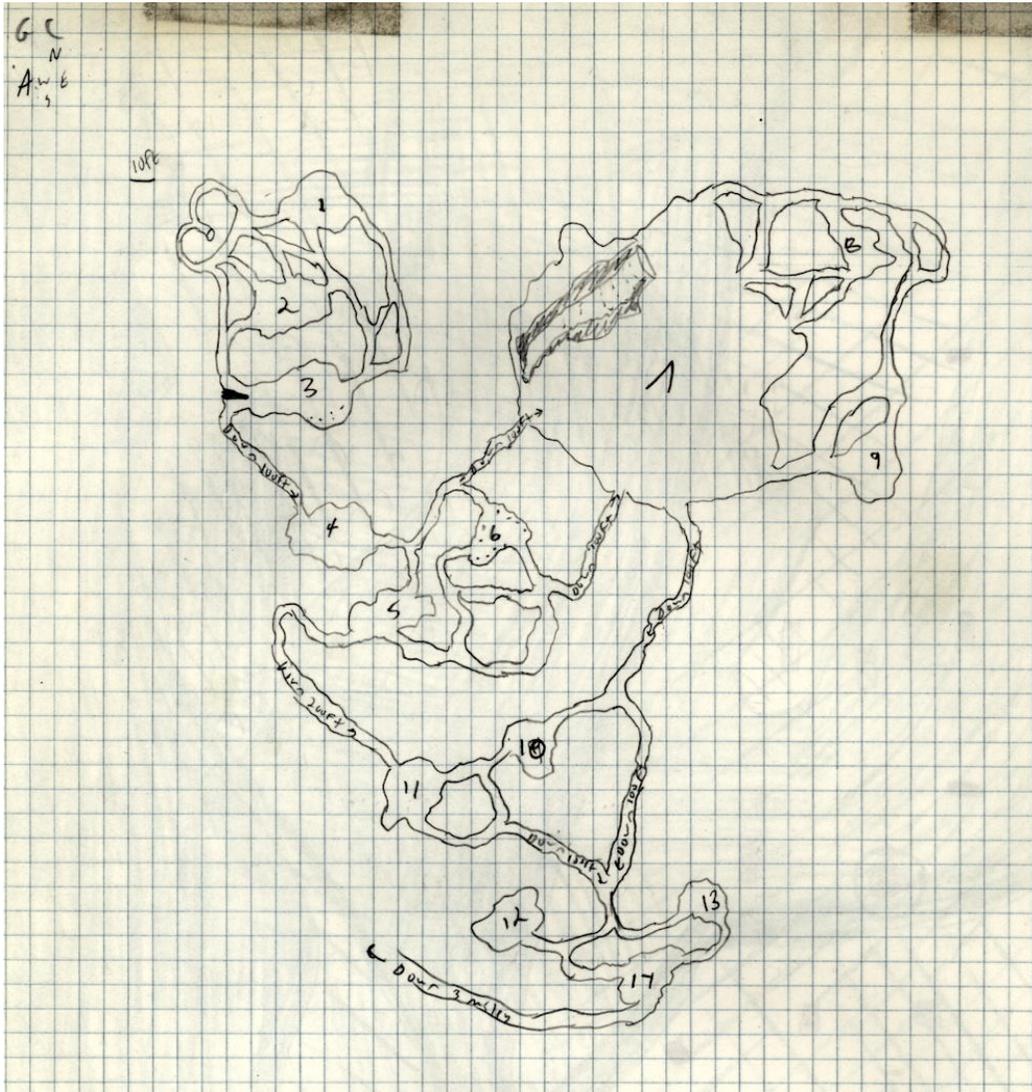

MAP GC

CAVE SYSTEM

The hole goes straight down about fifty feet.

Wandering monsters

- 1-2 giant shrew: AC4, HD1, hp 7, 8, At 2 bites, D1-6/1-6, save F1, N.
- 1-4 robber flies: AC6, HD2, hp 12, 9, At 1 bite, D1-8, save F1, N.

gc A

1. Twelve robber flies inhabit this cavern. They gain surprise on a roll of 1-4: AC6, HD2, hp 10, 5, 15, 10, 9, 3, 11, 11, 10, 5, 6, 8, At 1 bite, D1-8, save F1, N. There are 4 skeletons with various rusted out armor and weapons. Lying around the skeletons is some treasure. Skeleton 1: 11 copper pieces, 2 gold pieces; skeleton 2: 3 electrum pieces, silver holy symbol (25 gold pieces); skeleton 3: 12 copper pieces, 4 platinum pieces; skeleton 4: a large pouch holding 3 gold pieces, 4 silver pieces, a ring of flying and unknown control (Grabdok) and a scorpion: AC5, HD1/2, hp 4, At 2 claws/1 sting, D1-4/1-4/1-2+poison, save NM, N.
2. 8 giant shrews live here: AC4, HD1, hp 5, 3, 4, 8, 5, 7, 2, 8, At 2 bites, D1-6/1-6, save F1, N.

* A ring of control Grabdok? Is that a typo? Why not just call it that? It isn't like rings normally say "I am a ring of lizard control". They're unknown until you try them, or you hire a high-level magic-user. The latter is an expensive gamble; the former means the Dungeon Master laughs at you. Grabdok, incidentally, is the evil wizard of this island.

3. In here is an animated skeleton of an allosaurus: AC4, HD7, hp 41, At 1 bite, D4-24, save F3, C. Hidden by stalactites and stalagmites in the south is a pile of rocks. Under it is a helm of telepathy. Any who wear this or who have worn it will not see the way down to cavern 4.
4. There are 20 boulders, 6 feet by 8 feet, in this room. 5 hold a Rock Dryad: AC3, HD4, At special, D special, save F4, N. They can attack by doing a rock-to-mud and immediate mud-to-rock which will, if a save vs. dexterity is failed, cause the victim(s) to be stuck; or by charming and sending the charmed victim to room 5. Five dryads are required for the charm attack. They will not attack unless the party starts to hit the boulders, move them around, etc.
 - a) Dryad 1: hp 20; 312 gold pieces, 15 silver pieces, 25 platinum pieces, and a vial with 4 hits of a potion of attribute something-or-other. The first three hits are for increasing attribute numbers. The 4th is decreasing.*
 - b) Dryad 2: hp 19; 856 platinum pieces, a wand of metal detection, a map of the lost world, and a potion of longevity.
 - c) Dryad 3: hp 21; emerald (10 gold pieces, diamond (600 gold pieces, giant peridot (1,000 gold pieces), powder of light (3 pinches).
 - d) Dryad 4: hp 17; 2,138 gold pieces and a ring of control dinosaur.
 - e) Dryad 5: hp 16; staff of healing, scarab of protection, and a potion of invulnerability.
5. Nothing in this room except lots of boulders. The one in the middle (there are 25 that size) covers a 6-foot diameter hole which goes down 20 feet, then opens to an 8-foot room with a 6-foot diameter[†] pool in the middle. In the water is a giant octopus: AC7, HD8, hp 45, At 8 tentacles, D 1-3/round + special, save F4, N. Anyone hit by a tentacle automatically takes d3 damage per round from then on per tentacle, and a penalty of 1 to hit per tentacle; if they fail a save vs. dexterity the octopus will attempt to bite the victim for d6 points damage. An edged weapon that does six points severs a tentacle. The water hole is 50 feet in diameter[‡] and 60 feet deep. At the center on the bottom, under some coral, is a coffin, nailed shut, holding a water vampire: AC2, HD9, hp 33, At 1 touch+charm on gaze, D1-10+2 levels, save F4, C. Under the coffin, in a hole, is a rope of climbing, a potion of growth, and a ring of two questions.
6. Ten skeletons line the walls. Each one when touched will utter a hideous laugh, then turn to dust.
7. A living darkness: AC6, HD3+2, hp 21, At 1, D 1-6, save F3, CE. It always hits, except where magic protection is used, then subtract bonuses from AC 9; it takes 1/2 damage from magic weapons and full damage from fire. It takes 1-4 points from a light spell if it doesn't save vs. spells at -2. The 'tunnel' in this room starts out three feet in diameter and goes to 20 feet. It converts 1 inch to 1 foot. There are 25 platinum pieces and 30 gold pieces around a skeleton wearing +1 chain mail and a +1 spear at the short end. It is only seen if someone walks through from the large end. There are also six skeletons in the area:
 - a) Skeleton 1: 3 gold pieces, a pearl necklace (100 gold pieces), and a potion of heroism.
 - b) Skeleton 2: 10 gold pieces, 9 copper pieces, 3 rubies (100 gold pieces).
 - c) Skeleton 3. Sword+1, +3 vs. undead.
 - d) Skeleton 4. Gold necklace (50 gold pieces), two pearls (100 gold pieces).
8. Three gargoyles: AC5, HD4, hp 17, 19, 24, At 2 claws/1 bite/1 horn, D 1-3/1-3/1-6/1-4, save F8, C. There are 900 copper pieces in a pile here. Under it is a mace+1 and a cursed shield-2.
9. In this room, characters can hear shuffling and squeaking like a bunch of insects were in the room.
10. Five rhagodessa: AC5, HD4+2, hp 14, 32, 18, 25, 13, At 1 leg then 1 automatic bite, D0 then 2-16, save F2, N. 53 copper pieces, and a sword-2, cursed.
11. Two wyverns: AC3, HD7, hp 33, 27, At 1 bite/1 string, D2-16/1-6+poison, save F4, C. On a jut to the west are 245 silver pieces, 833 gold pieces, a vial of two hits of poison, and an x-ray ring.
12. A fire illusion fills this room. It gives no real heat, but the characters will feel it.
13. A freeze illusion fills this room. It acts as room 12.
14. Two hydramen: AC0, HD10-generation, hp (37, 18, 9, 4, 2, 1), (52, 26, 13, 6, 3, 1), At sword at +1, D 1-8, save F10-generation, N.

* Increasing what attribute numbers? By how much?

† Originally these diameters were radii; there was a 6-foot radius pool in an 8-foot room.

‡ Which means I did know the word "diameter".

WANDERING MONSTERS (DESERT ISLAND)

- Rust monster: AC2, HD5, hp 23, 18, 25, 29, At 1, D rust, save F3, N. Magic weapons or armor lose pluses before they rust; there is a 10% chance, times the number of remaining bonuses, that the magic item will not be affected by the rust monster that round.
- Giant scorpions: AC2, HD4, hp 19, 16, 22, 20, At 2 claws/1 sting, D1-10/1-10/1-4+poison, save F2, C. The sting is at +2 if a claw hit.

SHACK ON LAKE

It's a one-room shack with a hermit inside: AC0 (chain mail, shield+1, a ring+1, and a 17 dexterity), F6, hp 31, At sword+1 at +2, D4-11, C. He also has a longbow, 17 arrows, and 13 arrows+1, which he will use on anyone attempting to cross the lake. He will see them, 51-150 feet away, 85% of the time.

He shoots from inside the house, gaining AC-3. Also inside is a crude fishing pole, a barrel of salted fish, and a crude table and chair.

Docked to the house is a decrepit rowboat with one oar and five hull points.

THE SWAMP

The lake in the south is 250 degrees celsius. The temple is made of gold, silver, and electrum. The walls are 8 inches thick, and 10 feet by 15 feet by 11 feet. The arch goes up 5 feet from the 11 feet. Inside will be 3

* No, I did not think in Celsius. Nor do you see meters, liters, or any other part of the metric system anywhere else in this book. In case you're wondering, Google says it's 482 degrees Fahrenheit.

Kopru: AC3, HD8+4, hp 49, 41, 32, At 1 bite/1 tail or charm, D1-4/3-18 or committed to Kopru, save F9, C. Save vs. death ray to resist charm.

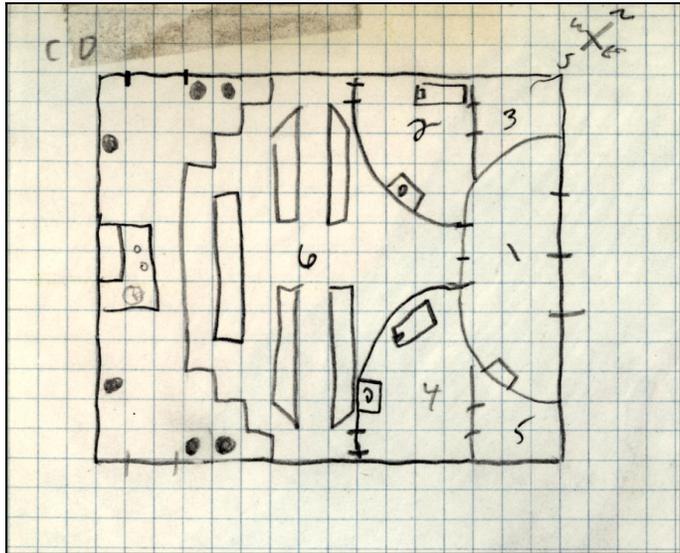

Inside is a gold holy symbol, 4 feet by 3 feet (2,500 gold pieces). There are 2 windows (2 feet by 1 foot) on each side of the house. There is 1 foot of water in the temple.

The dots in the crook by the river are upside down crosses, with corpses and skeletons in various tages of decay. Ten crosses are empty.

CD A TEMPLE

The temple in the clearing is made of oak and is still in good condition. The doors are wizard-locked by a 12th level wizard.

1. Coffin in south, empty. A hydra guards this room: AC2, HD7, hp 56, At 7 heads, D1-10 per head, save F7, N. It loses one head for every 8 hit points lost.
2. Room of the head cleric, now a spectre: AC2, HD6, hp 25, At touch, D 1-8+2 levels, save F6, C. The cleric controls two other spectres: AC2, HD4, hp 22, 12, At touch, D1-10+2 levels, save F4, C. In the desk (one drawer, E*) is 38 electrum pieces, a scroll of protection from elementals, a crystal ball with clairaudience, and a potion of polymorph self.
3. Storage room. 4 old rock statues, a box of 11 quill pens, and a jug of dried ink.
4. The 13th level cleric has been polymorphed into a bronze golem: AC-2 (shield+2), HD20, hp 63, At fist+special, D3-30, save F10, C. Anyone hitting the bronze golem with an edged weapon must save vs. death ray or take 2-12 points damage from the golem's blood. There is one drawer on each side of the desk:
 - a) Poison-locked. Contains a potion of ESP and a ring of fire resistance.
 - b) Contains a clerical scroll of insect plague, resist fire, quest, raise dead, and silence.
5. Storeroom. 2,122 copper pieces, 5,169 silver pieces, and boots of levitation†.
6. Main temple. Anyone going behind the altar must save vs. spells or be charmed to protect the temple, as the Kopru spell. There are two gold chalices (50 gold pieces) and a bowl of dried blood on the altar. The altar is marble. There are six stone statues in various places.

THE RIVER CIRCLE

The green inside the river circle are thorn bushes, 20 feet high. It takes 1 turn to clear a path 5 feet by 10 feet. A silver axe does twice as much.

There is a 2 in 20 chance every 3 turns that d6 basilisks are encountered: AC4, HD6+1, hp 31, 27, 34, 37, At 1 bite+gaze, D 1-10+petrification, save F6, N. On a gaze, save vs. stone to avoid the gaze, and be at -4 to hit and +2 to be hit; this is only a -1 to hit if a mirror is used; and a 2 in 6 chance it sees itself in the mirror.

There are 75 total basilisks.

* No idea what 'E' meant here.

† "Father Murphy, what do you want to do with these boots of levitation?" "Oh, Bejesus, Tom, I don't know. Where did we get those silly things? Put 'em in storage for now. Maybe we'll give 'em to Mrs. McClintock for the orphans."

THE SAND IN THE THORNS

The sand inside the thorns contains a total of 26 manticores: AC4, HD6+1, hp 21, 25, 35, 32, At 2 claws/1 bite or spikes, D1-4/1-4/2-8 or 1-6, save F6, C. A manticore can shoot up to six spikes four times. They will attack in as small a number as possible, but with a large chance of winning.

Also, there are three chimeras who will only come if needed: AC4, HD9, hp 52, 38, 47, At 2 claws/3 heads (goat gore/lion bite/dragon bite or fire), D1-3/1-3/(2-8/2-8/3-12 or 3-18), save F9, C. The dragon head can breath fire up to three times.

The lake is an illusion showing a lake covered with muck, seaweed, and corpses of animals and humans. Actually, it is a volcano, home of the evil wizard Grabdok.

RING OF FIRE

The ring of fire is about 50 feet thick. Characters take 3-18 points of damage per round. Any flammable items have an 80% chance of catching fire per round unless wet. Water will take 1 round to dissolve. A wall of ice will melt in 1/2 turn, leaving a path for 1 round.

If the person is drenched he will only take 1/2 damage. A cold spell will cancel out the heat for half its normal radius.

Inside the ring, in the middle, which can barely be seen from outside, are five scantily-clad females, charisma 18, 15, 17, 18, and 17, chained to the rocks. When the characters reach 10 feet from the females, they will disappear*.

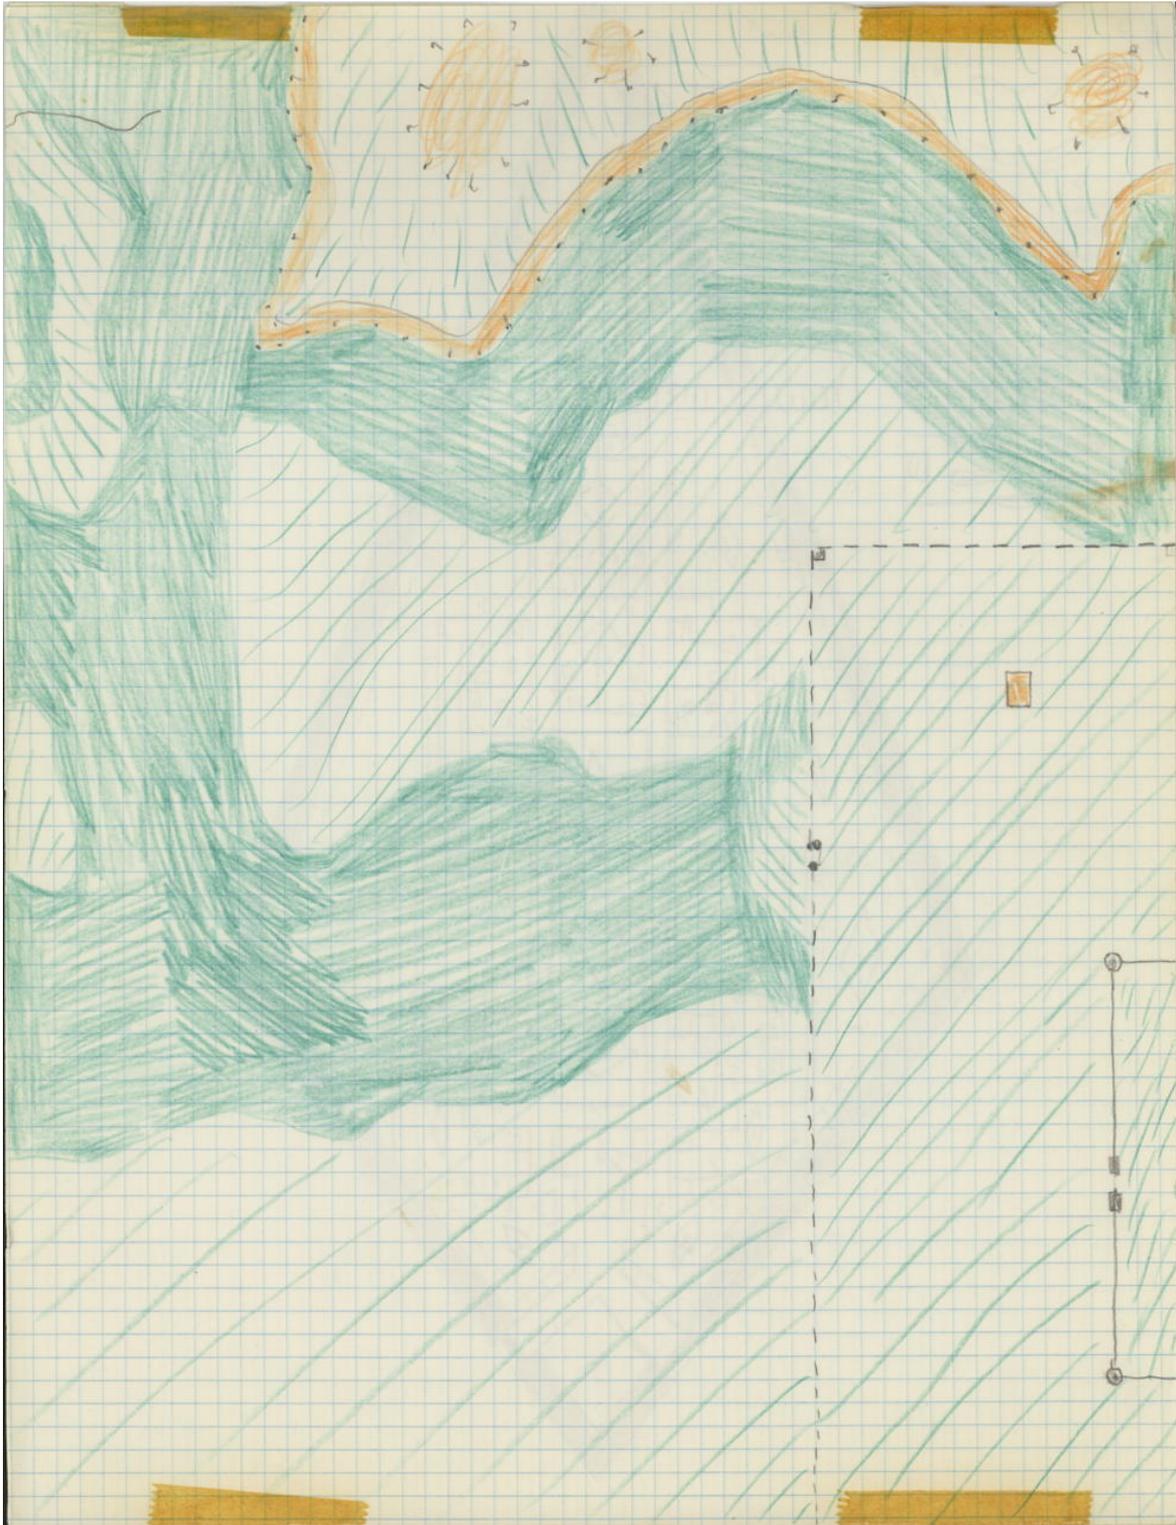

The ring fire will double its thickness, and close in at five feet per round, taking 10 rounds to completely close. One of the five rocks†, when moved, discloses a hole. The hole is completely dark and cannot be lit. It is a one-way portal to the middle of the city.

For the circles, see map CD.

* I'm assuming the scantily-clad females disappear, and not the characters. Although I can see a post-modern adventure here. The adventurers are imaginary rescuers imagined by the scantily-clad females, like the end of Brazil.

† Originally spelled "rocs", and as I retyped it I'm wondering, why didn't you mention the rocs before?

MAP ED

When the path in the upper left corner ends, an illusion makes it impossible to see where it was.

The blindness will affect one person, who must save vs. spells at -2. The living light takes no damage from normal weapons, and half damage from magic weapons. The colored glass (8 foot diameter, 400 gold pieces) shows Zeus and his lightning. While in the church it will not break. The rug is gold thread inlaid in red (400 gold pieces). 6. Treasure, under a 5 foot hole. Anyone going under has a 90% chance of being hit by manticores spikes from room 7 until moving (check for it every half turn). 38 silver pieces, 2,487 gold pieces, a pearl (100 gold pieces), a ring of electrum (110 gold pieces), a diamond necklace (1,500 gold pieces), a staff of healing, and an iron box filled with water and a potion of levitation. The box has a poison tip, but the tip is rusty. The save is at +2.
7. The roof has fallen to the floor. Two manticores live here. See room 6 for chances and hole. AC4, HD6+1, hp 30, 30, At 2 claws/1 bite or spikes, D 1-4/1-4/2-8 or 1-6 per spike, save F6, C. They can each throw six spikes at a time, four times.

Rotate the square one half clockwise.

There will be 3-60 dire wolves protecting the outside: AC6, HD4+1, hp 19, 21, 17, 14, At bite, D 2-8, save F2, N. Anyone dying here becomes a vampire, in the same manner as in the tower of map EC.

East tower, square: in ruins, empty.

MAP AE

Upon entering the main island, the party will, within 3-6 turns, meet a party of Elves. If they are lawful goods, they will be allowed to stay, but will be 'debriefed' on what they have seen on the island. Evils will be forced to leave immediately (see sheets for Elf party).

The kingdom of the Elves is about 40 feet off the ground, invisible from the ground, and still at least 25 feet below the trees.

AC A 1) ELF KINGDOM

The houses have natural walls, etc., and are 7.5 feet by 8 feet by 9 feet. The normal rooms are similar to the castle (map ac B) but with husband and wife in room 1, kids in room 2 and 3, kitchen, and dining room in room 1 and 2.*

AC B KING'S CASTLE

In the center.

1. Waiting room.
2. Guard room. Four 6th level elves.

 - b) AC3 (chain mail and shield, dexterity 15), E6, hp 34, At war hammer+2 at +1 (strength 14), D4-9, LG. Has: boots of levitation and the spells magic missile, sleep, detect evil, ESP, haste, and dispel magic.
 - c) AC-1 (chain mail and shield+1, +1 ring 5 foot radius, dexterity 18), E6, hp 33, At sword+1 +3 vs. regenerating creatures at +1, D3-10, LG. Has a scroll of protection from elementals and the spells magic missile (twice), web (twice), and hold person (twice).
 - d) AC1 (chain mail and shield, dexterity 18, E6, hp 24, At sword+1 at +2, D4-11, LG. Has a wand of illusion with 18 charges and the spells magic missile, sleep, mirror image, web, hold person, and lightning bolt.

5. Treasure room. 5,057 silver pieces and 304 gold pieces.

ISLAND #2 (PEGASI)

Six pegasi live here. They will not attack, or show up, but may be called by the Elves. AC6, HD2+2, hp 9, 13, 13, 8, 16, 7, At 2 hooves, D1-6/1-6, save F2, L.

* These map references don't make sense for ac B. Neither do the King's Castle references.

SWAMP

- 3 sea serpents: AC5, 5, 6, HD6, 6, 4, hp 26, 33, 15, At bite, D2-12, (1-8 for the HD4 serpent), save F3, F3, F2, N.

THE OCEAN

The ocean also holds sea serpents (see Swamp, above, hp 26, 33, 17, 35).

PIT

The pit holds millions of bones of just about every type of animal on the island. At the absolute bottom, unseen unless see invisible is used is a sword +1 +3 vs. dinosaurs, across a 3-foot diameter hole. The hole goes down 4 miles to the lost world.

Wandering monsters among the bones

- d6 giant scorpions: AC2, HD4, hp 20, 15, 17, 16, At 2 claws/1 sting (at +2 if claws hit), D1-10/1-10/1-4+poison, save F2, C.
- d6 scorpions: AC5, HD1/2, At 2 claws/1 string, D1-4/1-4/1-2+poison (save at +1), save NM, N.

THE BUILDING

The building looks like a gigantic temple. It is an illusion. The walls can be walked through, as can the trappings inside, except for one statue of a dragon, in marble, with its mouth wide open and water gushing out into a pool around the statue. If a character crawls in, he will be immediately completely under water. The tunnel goes down 30 feet, then opens into a completely water-filled room.

The room is 100 cubic feet†. Inside is a sea dragon (95% chance to be there every turn): AC1, HD9, hp 43, At bite or breath (poison glob), D3-24 or die, save F9, N.

At the north end is a large hole, 50 feet by 25 feet, that goes straight to the ocean. The treasure is under a coral reef to the west (unnoticeable unless looking very closely): a pile of coral-encrusted coins (10,742 gold pieces, 28,503 electrum pieces) and a chest (10,000 coins) with 1,510 electrum pieces, 5,904 gold pieces, a sword+1 locate objects, and boots of speed.

* I guess this means the sword is invisible?

† I hope this was a typo. With a sea dragon inside, I'd hope for at least a million cubic feet. That is, about 100 feet on a side. A hundred cubic feet is a box about four and a half feet on a side.

MAP CE

For the large building, see map BE.

LAKE

33 nixies abide in this lake: AC7, HD1, At trident or dagger, D1-4, save E1, N. Ten of them together can cast a charm spell. If forced to fight, each will summon a giant bass: AC7, HD2, hp 16, 15, 14, 13, At 1, D1-6, save F1, N.

Their home is at the bottom of the lake, and guarded by four charmed adventurers.

- AC2 (chain mail and shield, dexterity 16), D5, hp 33, At war hammer+3 returns, At+2, D6-11, LG.
- AC0 (plate mail +1 and shield +1, F12, hp 53, At sword+1, At+1, D3-10, NE; also has a magic bow+1 with 7 arrows.
- AC3 (chain mail and shield), H2, hp 10, At sword, D2-9, NG.

He also has a ring of water-walking, a ring of control plant, and a bag of holding with 3,000 gold pieces, a 5-spell scroll of locate object, dimension door, invisibility, invisible stalker, and feblemind, and a 2-spell scroll of detect magic and charm person. His spells are magic missile, read magic, sleep, invisibility, web, ESP, fireball, lightning bolt, curse, and polymorph self.

ce A 1

1. Rooms. Each holds d6+3 nixies.
2. A giant crab guards the entrance: AC2, HD3, hp 11, At 2 pincers, D2-12/2-12, save F2, N. The treasure is 6,897 copper pieces, 1,129 silver pieces, a topaz gem (60 gold pieces), cursed chain mail-2, and a shield+1.

four rocks

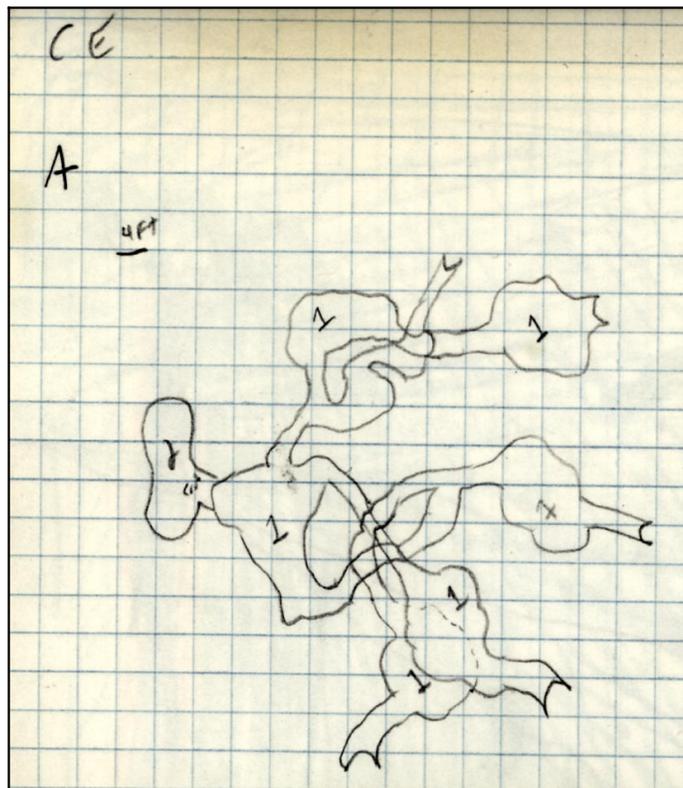

The four rocks are highly magnetic, and will attract a 150-pound person in plate from 25 feet; the effect is noticeable from 60 feet. Between 26 and 35 feet, metal weapons get -2 on 'to hit', 36-50 feet get -1, and 20-25 feet get -3. Chain mail is pulled from 20 feet.

Weapons less than 20 feet away will be taken, as will any metallic objects.

Each rock is 10 feet by 6 feet, weighing 35,000 coins.

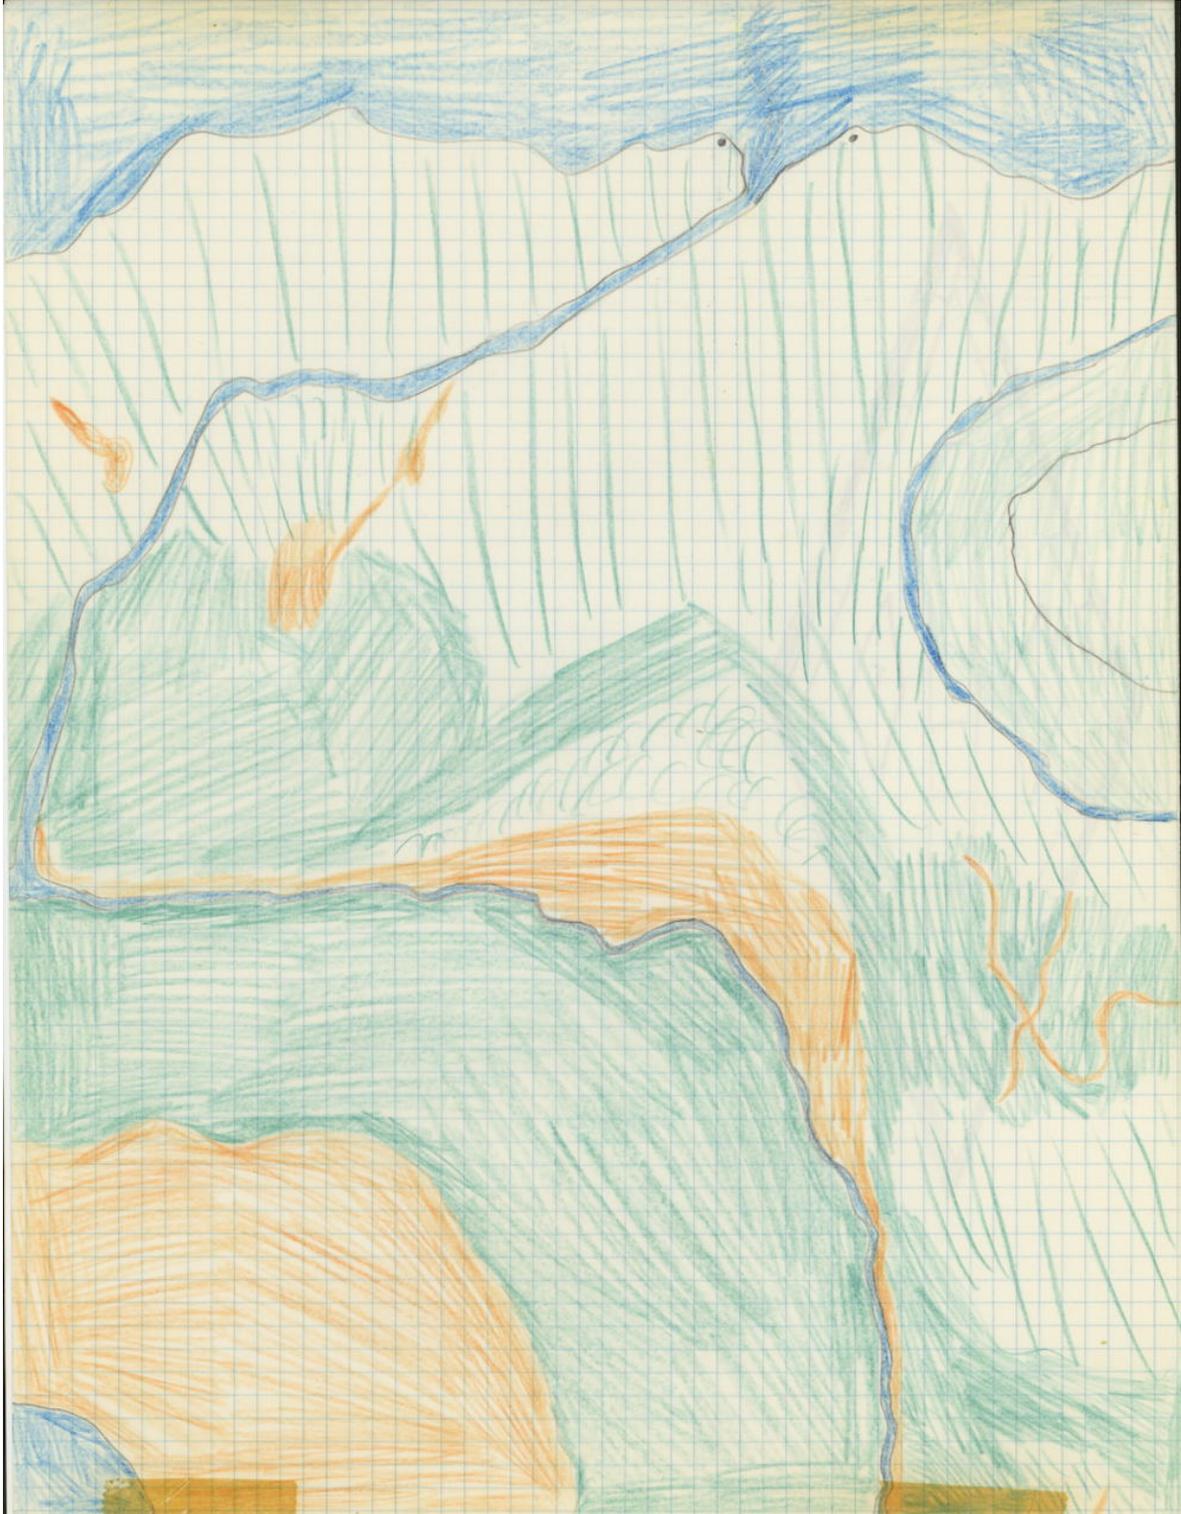

On the rocks:

1. three suits of rusted chain mail, a short sword, and 6 spikes.
2. non-rusting plate mail, a crowbar, a rusted war hammer, a sword, and 10 arrows.
3. plate mail, a rusted mirror, a sword+2, an old lantern.
4. five rusted swords, two lanterns, and a rusted two-handed sword.

* Is this magical? Or just a fake-out to make them think it's magical?

MAP DE

RIVER IN THE EAST

The river in the east goes clockwise.

Wandering monsters (river)

- 1-6 crocodiles: AC5, HD2, hp 3, 11, 9, 4, 8, 12, At 1, D1-8, save F1, N.

There are also trout, plankton, and sunfish in the river.

Wandering monsters (trees inside the river)

- Sprites: AC5, HD1/2, At curse, D joke, save E1, N. Their jokes are never meant to cause death. It takes 5 sprites to cast a curse, and there are 39 sprites.
- Unicorns: AC2, HD4, hp 25, 13, 16, At 2 hooves/1 horn, D1-8/1-8/1-8, save F8, L. There are 3 unicorns.

TOWER RUINS

Both are completely caved in and weather-worn. The east one has caved completely through to the basement. But the west has only caved to the first floor. Treat rock covering entrance to the basement as a secret door.

Inside the basement is a 12-headed hydra: AC5, HD12, hp 96, At 12 bites or 10 bites and 2 flames), D1-10 per head, save F(number of heads), N. The two middle heads breathe fire, up to three times each, for 1-8 points damage*. For every 8 hit points lost, one head is also lost.

Also in the basement is a skeleton shackled to the floor.

There is a small rat hole (3 feet diameter) in the west wall, just above the floor. Just beyond that (a 5 foot tunnel) is a 20 foot by 30 foot by 7 foot high room with 12 giant rats: AC7, HD1/2, At 1, D1-3+disease, save F1, N. The rats will get 3 attacks for 1 of the character's until the character can stand up.

Among the rats are three skeletons in rusted armor and weapons in the northwest; and a bag with 178 silver pieces.

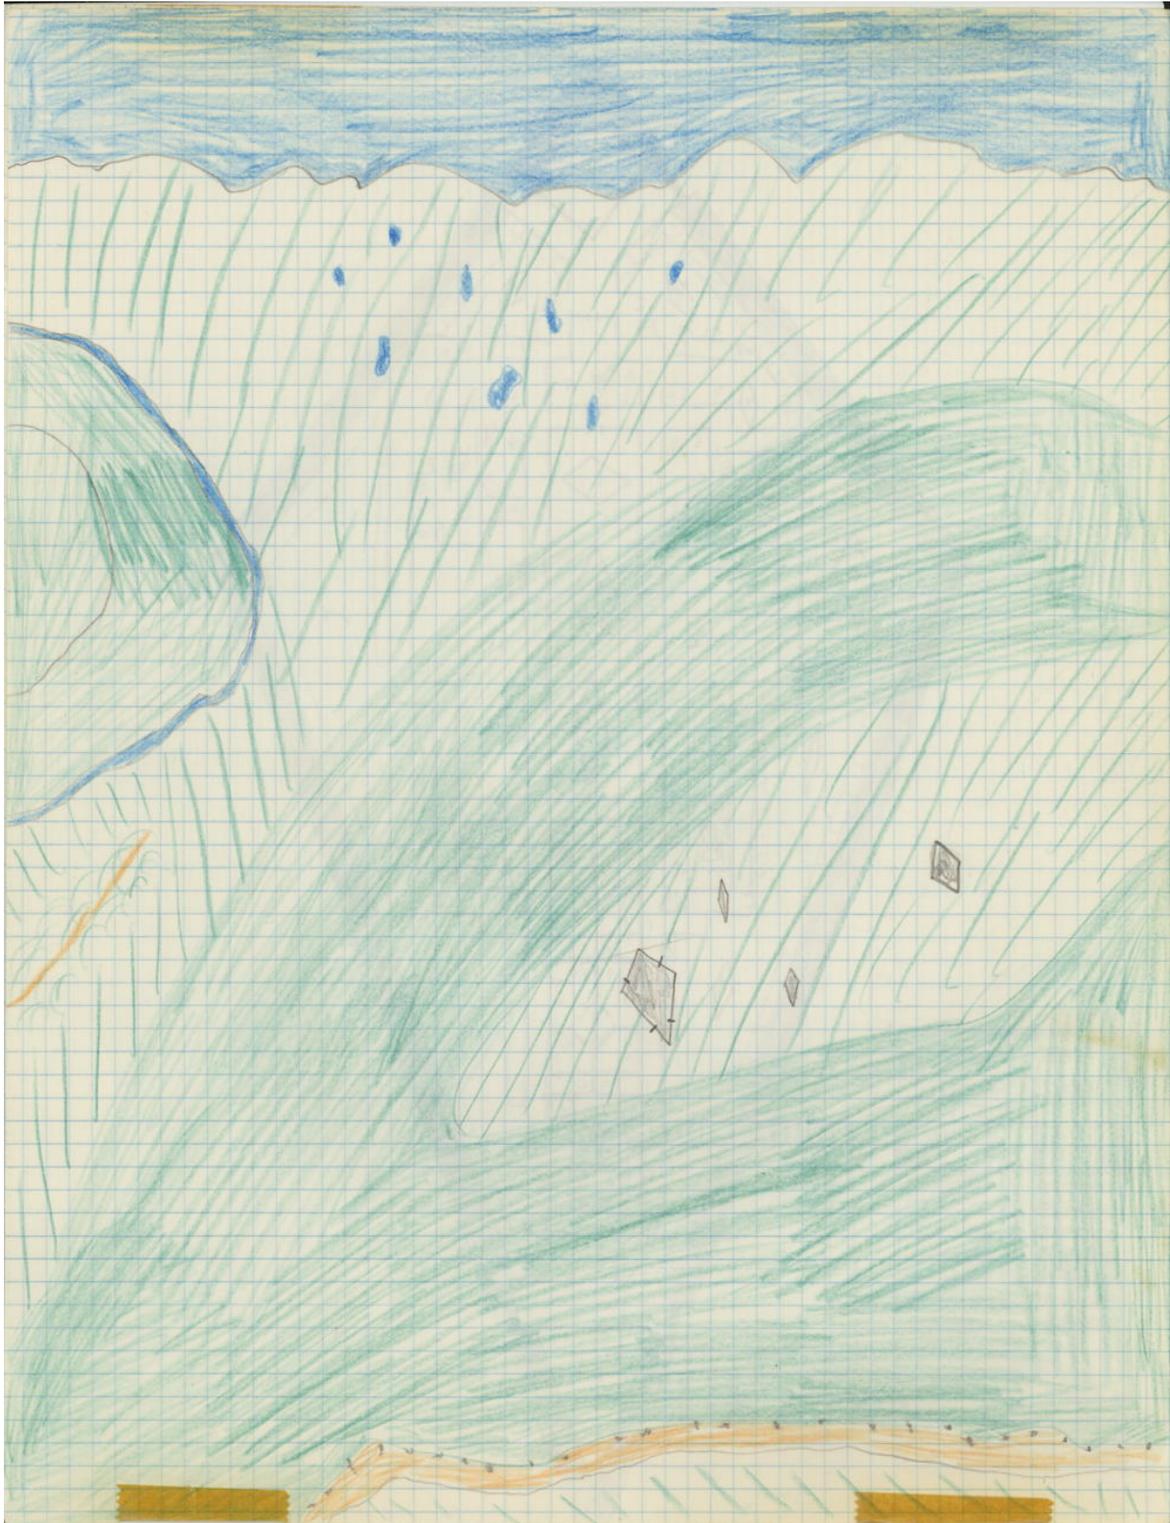

In the south of this room is a 3 foot by 4 foot hole, going straight down. After about 400 feet it levels off into a natural tunnel 5 feet by 5 feet by 7 feet, which goes 20 feet, winding a bit, then opening into a room 10 cubic feet†, holding 3 mummies: AC3, HD5+1, hp 21, 28, 28, At touch, D1-12+disease, save F5, C. Magic weapons or fire are required to hit the mummies. Upon seeing the mummies each character must save vs. paralysis or be paralyzed with fear until the mummies attack.

In the east is a hole, going east 20 feet then down 3 miles to the lost world.

* Which makes them less effective than just biting, although it is a ranged weapon. The example in the Expert set gives as an example of "special" heads, a fire-breathing head that does 8 points damage. I wonder if I misread it?

† Okay, I definitely had a problem with "cubic". I'm betting I meant 10 feet on a side.

MAP EE

For circles, see map DE.

The lakes are stagnant. In them are leeches: AC7, HD6, hp 23, 36, 38, 22, At suck, D1-6/round, save F3, N.

Someone in the water will attract 2-5 leeches after 1 round. Outside there is a 2 in 8 chance that that many will come out every 3 rounds.

EE A DIAMOND BUILDING

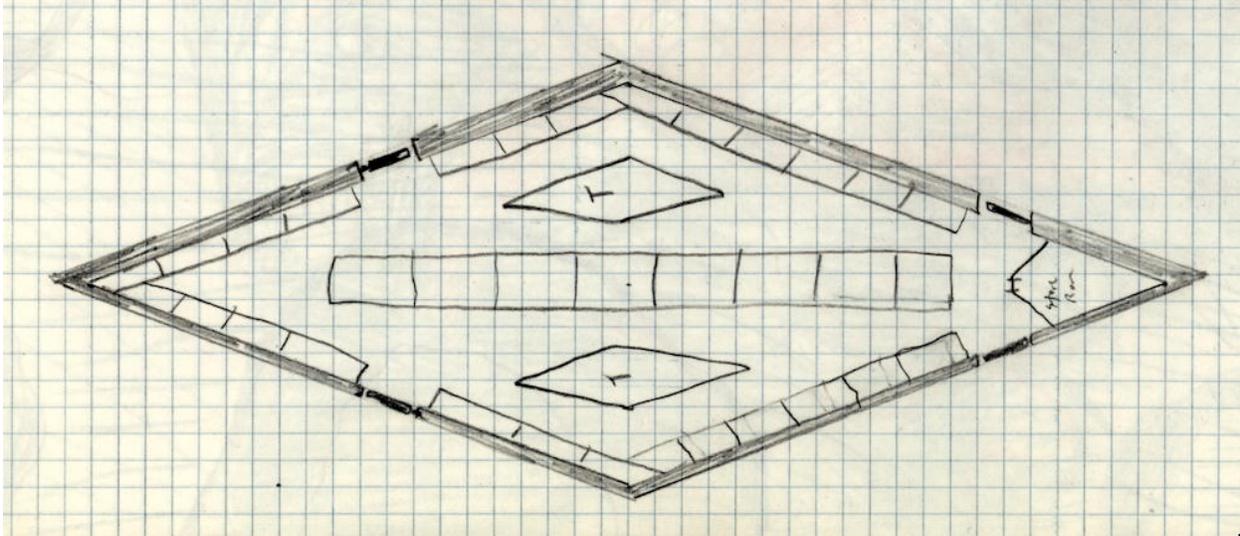

The large diamond is a building, 150 feet by 300 feet, 1 story (20 feet) high, no windows. The outside walls are rock, the inside ones are wood. Inside each door are two Green Sleestak armed with crossbows and 15 quarrels each: AC5, HD6+1, hp 32, 27, 35, 15, At crossbow at +2 or 2 claws, D1-6 or 2-8/2-8, save D8, N. If someone attempts to come in, the Sleestak will go down to the end of the corridor and aim their bows, shooting as soon as they see someone not a Sleestak. They get a minimum of two shots and cannot be surprised. If there are many intruders, the guards from the other door will help, and raise the alarm. 1-4 will arrive each around, until no more can fit or no more are left. The most that can fight side by side are two.

1. Treasure room. A double one is needed. There is 3,000 gold pieces, 400 platinum pieces, 1,000 electrum pieces, 1,500 silver pieces, and 7,000 copper pieces in here. There are also 4 zombies: AC8, HD5, 2, 4, 9, hp 30, 5, 15, 31, At sword, D1-8, save F4, F1, F3, F8, C.
2. Quarters for 10 Green Sleestak. In the closet are 200+ quarrels.
3. Quarters for 8 Green Sleestak.
4. Kitchen. The circle is a stove. The line to the east is utensils. The room to the west is the pantry, with loads of food.
5. A Blue lives here: AC6, HD7, hp 41, At spell or 2 claws, D1-6/1-6, save D8, C-g/n*. His spells are sleep, ventriloquism, hold portal, invisibility, detect evil, locate object, lightning bolt, and wizard eye. He also has a potion of fire resistance.
6. Blue: AC6, HD8, hp 36, At spells or claws, D1-6/1-6, save D9, C. His spells are charm person, protection from evil, shield, continual light, levitate, location object, fireball, dispel magic, massmorph, and polymorph others. He also has a potion of healing.

FIRST LEVEL OF CASTLE BARKON

Wandering monsters

Every two turns an encounter occurs on 1 on 1d6.

1	doppelganger (1, room 5)
2-6	Wights (1-4, room 9)
7-11	Giant rats (2-5, room 12)
12-14	Driver Ants (1-4, room 14)
15	Gargoyle (1, room 15)
16-18	Sprites (2-8, room 17)
19-20	Spectre (1, room 26)

Description

- Five NPC's (see sheet) line the south wall. They are in magical suspended animation (as stasor beam*). Only smoke from burning the remains of the logs in the great hall (room 14) can wake them.
- There are 5 leg bones in the northeast corner. Anyone touching one must save vs. spells or go to an empty room and guard it as if they were a monster.
- Empty.
- Empty.
- Two doppelgangers inhabit this room. AC5, HD4, hp 26, 10, At two-handed sword, D1-12, save F10, C. They are here 95% of the time.
- Dead medium: just a skeleton in a tattered robe. In the robe is a normal dagger, and a book in an unknown language (her spell book).

- Upon entering it will look as though some rocks are falling. Each person must save vs. spells or be unconscious for 1-4 turns. Actually, there are no rocks.
- It looks as though this room is bustling with activity. It used to be the kitchen, and the illusions are preparing a great feast.
- A lot of rotted old food. 2-5 Giant Rats every turn: AC7, HD1/2, At 1, D1-3+disease, save F1, N. There are a total of 127 rats.
- On each side of the tables, from longest to shortest, there are 10, 9, and then 7 chairs. Blood drips from a point above the king's chair, and falls in a small pool on the floor. Occasionally (when they least expect it, 50% when walking in) the party may see the wounded king also†. Any putting their hands through the 'body' of the king must save vs. death ray or gain that wound (lower back). Nothing will stop it (bandages won't even get bloody!) and the person will not be able to heal in any way until this has been dispelled, as a curse. The curse is allowed a save vs. spells as a 6th level fighter. The tables have rotted, and are falling apart, as are the chairs.
- There are 8 chairs on the north side of the small tables, and 12 on the north of the large ones. Six driver ants inhabit, 65% of the time. AC3, HD4, hp 32, 30, 28, 26, 24, 22, At 1, D2-12, save F2, N.

- Six chairs on each side of the tables. On the two large tables are fruits of many kinds, all appearing fresh. Anyone eating them must save vs. poison or die.
- A shrieker: AC7, HD3, hp 18, At noise, D monster, save F1, N. It will shriek 1-3 rounds when they enter. Each round there is a 50% chance for a wondering monster to be attracted by the noise. It will arrive in 2-12 rounds.
- Empty except for hay.

- Empty except for hay.

* Because "stasor beam" was well-defined in the rules, right?

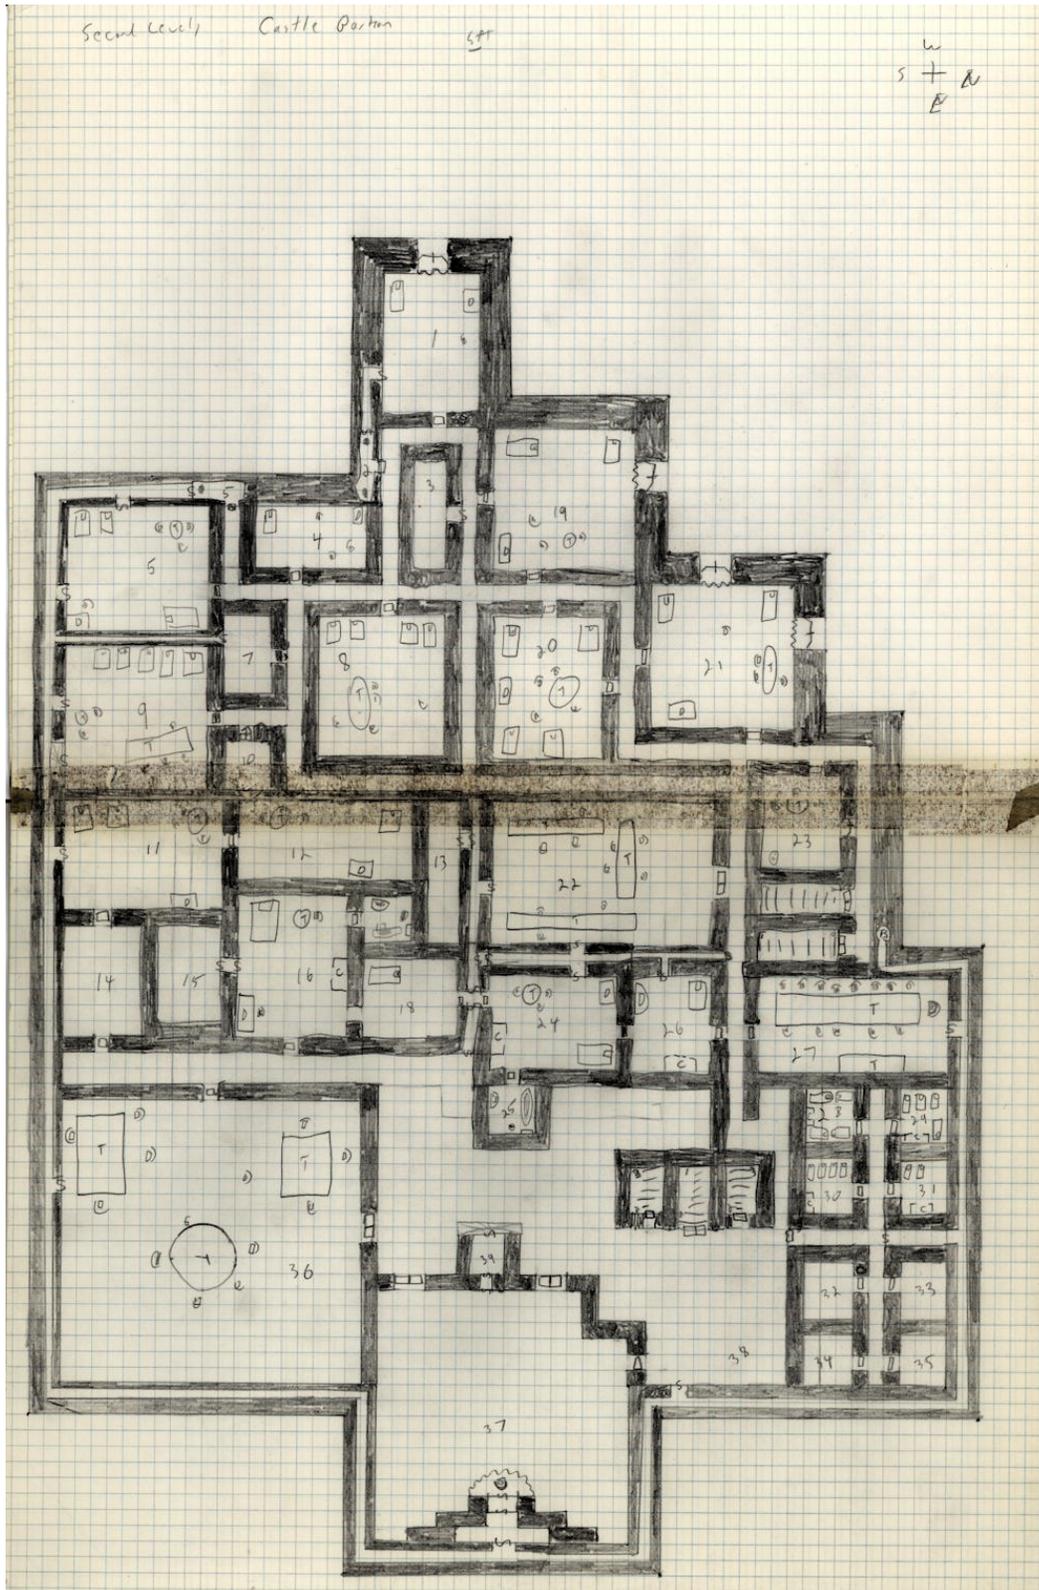

† "The Castle of the Bleeding King" has a nice ring to it, doesn't it?

Treasure, in the far corner⁴, under hay: 5,000 silver pieces, 300 gold pieces, 40 platinum pieces, a dark green nephrite gem (50 gold pieces), a purple amethyst bracelet (120 gold pieces), and an emerald brooch (50 gold pieces).
27. An empty treasure chest, locked (weight: 1,000 coins, 500 coins⁵). When opened, a flash of light will blind all in the room who do not save vs. spells, for 1-4 turns.
28. Any entering this room must save vs. spells or have a nature call[†]. There is a 40% chance that a wandering monster will come after they're done but before they have their armor back on.

* I don't know why there are two weights listed. Maybe it weighs 50 pounds and can carry 100 pounds, or vice versa?

† That is, take a piss. The assumption being that if they're in armor they will need to remove their armor to do it.

12. An ochre jelly is here 90% of the time: AC8, HD5, hp 16, D2-12, save F3, N.
13. This room is filled with weird, pulsating colors. In the middle is a pool of water, acting as a mirror of life trapping, now empty. To be 'broken' it must be evaporated.
14. Two mummies are here 95% of the time: AC3, HD5+1, hp 25, 26, D1-12+disease+fear, save F5, C. They have 200 platinum pieces, a jade gem (10 gold pieces), an emerald-in-platinum locket (1,300 gold pieces), and a turquoise necklace (200 gold pieces, or 10 gold pieces per ball).
15. Two phantasmal force mummies will attack.
16. When the door is closed, a kaleidoscope of colors will fill the room.
17. Living Darkness: AC6, HD3+2, hp 23, D1-6 automatically, save F3, C. It has 86 electrum pieces.
18. Six treasure chests. Chests (e) and (f) are poisoned.
 - a) 3,512 copper pieces.
 - b) 5,000 gold pieces.
 - c) 4,000 silver pieces.
 - d) 1,000 electrum pieces.
 - e) a spell scroll of quest and a scroll of protection from elementals.
 - f) A potion of polymorph self, a potion of flying, and a potion of control plant; plate+1, shield+1, a cursed shield-2, and a broom of flying.†
19. Three spectres are here 75% of the time: AC2, HD6, hp 29, 25, 19, D1-8+2 levels, save F6, C. In the north by the hall on the stairs is 800 electrum pieces and a diamond-encrusted sheath (1,000 gold pieces).
20. It looks like 5 piles, of 10,000 copper pieces, 10,000 electrum pieces, 10,000 platinum pieces, 10,000 gold pieces, and 10,000 silver pieces. If someone tries to take from any pile it will disappear, but if the copper pile is tried first a gold ring of questions (275 gold pieces) will appear on the floor where it was.
21. In here it looks like a miniature desert, but feels normal. In the middle is the illusion of a guru with a wound pouring blood. If a cure wounds spell is cast on him, the illusion will disappear, and where the guru was will be a vial with powder of monster creation/red dragon: AC-1, HD7, hp 32, D1-8/1-8/4-32 or hit points, save F7, N.

* Hm... I have no note about what happens if they keep leaving and re-entering. If they're allowed to do that, the odds are with them.

† You think this one is bigger than the others?

Their treasure is a ruby earring set (25 gold pieces), a pearl necklace (13 pearls, 100 gold pieces), two garnets-set-in-gold lockets (100 gold pieces), a chrysolite gem (10 gold pieces), a silver ball earring set (50 gold pieces), and an emerald bracelet inlaid with coral (500 gold pieces).
4. The treasure chest here contains a Pandora's Box, with the following curses: (1) -2 ton 'to hit' rolls; (2) -4 on 'to hit' rolls; (3) most powerful magic item disappears; (4) 100-1,200 gold pieces of non-magic goes; (5) reroll a characteristic (1d6); (6) all saves are made at -3; (7) cannot sleep at night; (8) penalty of 3 on AC; (9) the next time he is in a fight with a monster of equal or greater hit dice, he will be paralyzed for 1-4 rounds, when melee starts; (10) largest carrying thing becomes one of devouring; (11) most-used weapon will be cursed, -2; (12) armor or clothing is cursed, -3. 5. Empty, except for chains.
6. There is a giant blade which will swing down, as a 7HD monster with +4*. There is a brick at the entrance (as a secret door), which, when pushed, locks the blade for 1/2 turn.
7. Empty, except for a barrel of 60 rusted, no-good quarrels.
8. Empty.
9. Two gorgons are here 95% of the time: AC2, HD8, hp 32, 37, D2-12 or petrification, save F8, C. They have 80 platinum pieces.
10. Upon entering, it will seem as if no way out to sight, but feeling will discover doors.

16. A Black Pudding is here 87% of the time: AC6, HD10, hp 39, D3-24, save F5, N. It is on the ceiling. In the southeast is a rock 'box'. It can only be opened by one person with strength 18, two with strength 32, or three with strength 42†. Inside is 300 platinum pieces and 300 gold pieces.
17. A giant scorpion is here 80% of the time: AC2, HD4, hp 22, D1-10/1-10/1-4+poison, save F2, C.
18. Upon opening the door, six darts will come out, at +1 and as 5 HD.

* I'm assuming that I said a 7HD monster at +4 rather than a 15HD monster is that the +4 also applies to damage... but what damage? I'm nearly certain we were using variable weapon damage from the start.

† We usually had four players, one of whom was the DM.

19. Four adventurers. See sheet.
20. Three displacer beasts are here 80% of the time: AC4, HD6, hp 30, 32, 32, D2-8/2-8, save F6, N.

The bag contains a lot of things that confer special abilities: a copper ring (cures 10 hit points per day), a vial with a black liquid (control animals once per week), a small statuette of a girl (+2 on saves, rock), an iron bar (allows user to speak any human tongue), two wooden sticks (as iron bar), a box of dirt (delusion: user believes their prime requisite is 18), a copper medallion with a lead chain (50 coins, +1 on random ability score), a sword+1, and a mirror (3 inches by 4 inches, it cures one disease per week).
23. Upon entering this room, a poison fog envelopes them for 2 rounds.
24. Treasure chest: a poison tip on the lock. When opened, there is a 4 in 6 chance of being hit by a poison dart. It contains 2,000 gold pieces and 30 platinum pieces.
25. Treasure chest: upon opening the character must save vs. dexterity at -3 or it hits their armor, acting as a rust monster. It contains jade (100 gold pieces) pink coral (50 gold pieces), an agate (10 gold pieces), an onyx (100 gold pieces), a peridot (100 gold pieces), and a chrysolite (10 gold pieces).
26. A one-foot diameter beam of pure energy is moving north to south from the walls. Anything stuck in it will be destroyed.
27. There is a statue, rubbery, of a gargoyle in here. If a person tries to hit it, he will take the damage. Behind it is 7,000 silver pieces and 500 gold pieces. Under the silver pieces is a belt of constitution, a chalcedony (5 gold pieces), two onyx (50 gold pieces), a turquoise (25 gold pieces), an emerald (150 gold pieces), two chrysolites (10 gold pieces), a nephrite (40 gold pieces), a topaz (50 gold pieces), an emerald (150 gold pieces), a turquoise (25 gold pieces), a topaz (50 gold pieces), a ruby (200 gold pieces), three beryl (50 gold pieces), a sapphire (150 gold pieces), and a zircon (15 gold pieces).
28. In here is rusted torture equipment.

30. A low moaning can be heard in here.

3. The number of skeletons here is the total HD of the party divided by 2. AC7, HD2, hp 16, D2-11 (two-handed sword), save F2, C.
4. The number of zombies here is the total HD of the party divided by 4. AC8, HD4, hp 30, D3-11 (pole arm), save F2, C.
5. In here there will be HD/5 will-o-the-wisps: AC-8, HD6+5, hp 40, D2-16, save F7, CN.
6. In here, there will be skeletons for the first person (as in room 3), zombies for the second (as in room 4), and will-o-the-wisps for the third (as in room 5). For the fourth person, there will again be skeletons, etc.
7. Here, the party will meet a replica of themselves—each replica will have the same attributes, spells, weapons, and armor, including magic, and will always gain initiative. If a replica is killed, it will disappear, and the real person must save vs. spells or pass out for 1-4 rounds.†
8. There is an empty, closed treasure chest in the center of this room. Upon being opened, it will cause the floor to fall, 50 feet, so each person will take 5-30 points of damage.

* 25+2d10. In case it wasn't immediately obvious.

† You know, I think this would have been cooler if the real person were to disappear for 1-4 rounds.

THE LOST WORLD

ENTRANCES

2. Map DB, map db C, area 1 (the whirlpool)
3. Map BE, the pit, (hidden tunnel)
4. Map DE, the tower ruins (hole beyond mummies)

There's also the underground isle map in map CA's Next Level. Location three has a tunnel leading to the sleestak underground.

And there's a map of the lost world for the player characters to find in map GC, gc A 4.

THE PYLONS

The pylons in the underground can be used to travel dimensions. On the dimensional map, purple marks a main connection; red marks a "circle connection", and green marks an "under-bypass connection".

A is Dimension Zero, the Sleestak Genesis.

AM is Earth Prime's dimension.

Something is Flash Gordon's dimension, because, after all, this was the eighties.

He is here because he doesn't want to endanger others.†

2. Pylon. Sleestak Dimension Viewer/Traveler

When traveling through this area, there is a 2 in 20 chance of seeing it, 5-in-10 if keeping their eyes open. Only the Sleestak historian knows anything about it, and that isn't much—he doesn't even know its here!

* Trying to figure out how this number is generated. 8d10+20? I guess before the days of 00 dies, we had lots of d10s.

† So this is where Bill Bixby went when the show ended. Never would have pegged him as a 7th level fighter.

6. Blue sleestak (their leader). AC6, HD8, hp 35, At 2 claws, D1-6/1-6, save D9, NG. His spells are sleep, protection from evil, ventriloquism, web, phantasmal force, mirror image, protection from normal missiles, haste, polymorph self, and wizard eye. He has a 2-spell scroll with ESP and Death Spell, a medallion of ESP 30 feet, and a floating table (5 feet by 3 feet).

13. Storeroom. 200 crossbow bolts, 35 crossbows.
14. Pit. Hole in west to egg storage. (My guess: the unmarked tunnel coming out of room 15.)
15. The pool is 2 feet deep in middle. Its fumes are slightly poisonous to humans. In 2-8 rounds, they must then save vs. poison each round or become unconscious, dying 1 turn later.*
16. This room is now empty, except for an Earth elemental guarding the room. AC0, HD12, hp 57, At 1, D3-24, save F12, N.
17. This room is filled with fog (like room 15, though apparently not as poisonous).† They must save vs. poison each round at +2 or their vision is reduced to 1/2 feet, and 'to hits' penalized by 2. In the pool is a green dragon.‡ AC1, HD11, hp 49, At 2 claws/1 bite or breath, D1-6/1-6/3-24, save F8, CE. The dragon's treasure is at the bottom of the pool: 4,700 silver pieces, 1,200 platinum pieces, 200 copper pieces, 100 electrum pieces, a jade/sapphire/platinum/electrum holy symbol (1,500 gold pieces), an amethyst/garnet/silver brooch (700 gold pieces), and a potion of strength.
18. Full of fog (as room 17). This is their egg storage area.§

* This portion of my notes isn't typewritten; apparently I waffled between having them die after 2-5 rounds or 1 turn.

† My handwriting's pretty bad. Every time I read this, I see "This room is filled with fun."

‡ This was originally going to be a "special monster from the sleestak dimension", but I must have got lazy.

§ Lots of fog. I saw Alien in the movie theaters, so I had seen it by the time I started gaming. Probably I was stealing imagery from the egg hatchery in that movie.

BACKGROUND

LOCATION

Mordol is a tiny island on its own, about 2,000 miles west and 200 miles south of Specularum—very close to the equator.

HISTORY OF MORDOL

Mordol's Gods lived here, and were worshipped by the builders of the pyramid flanked by temples. Some remnants of their power can still be seen: the 'haven' for animals in the cave system was fashioned by the Goddess of animals. The illusion of a ball in that same system was made by the Sun God.

Sleestak came to the underground from their dimension.

The worshippers of Mordol's Gods build a mission on the northeast peninsula for the natives there.

The demons come, and are worshipped by a few people of map CD, the oak temple.

The big fight. As a result of this fight, the mission was destroyed, and the two forces (Gods and Demon) were mutually imprisoned under the temples. All but the highest level of people in the area survived, and these retreated to stay in the pyramid.

A college for Magic-users is started on a southeast islet. Eventually they note that there is some great power somewhere on the island, although it cannot be told what this is.

Two factions break out, both searching. Erression—leader of one and Grabdok—leader of others, build their fortresses.

Both bring in help from anywhere possible. Erression brings in Elves, and Dwarves, and humans (Clerics, Fighters). Grabdok brings Orcs, finds some Kopru from the Isle of Dread, human clerics and fighters.

Both sides make lots of magic objects to help them. There is finally a big battle, but neither side wins a decisive victory. Both settle back in, Erression trying to keep Grabdok from finding whatever it is.

Period of Tranquility

Some Sleestak come up (now eggs in hot sands*)

Clerics from pyramid—some leave (Mages Castle)

People move from Grabdok's thrall to by lake, soon Grabdok has some worshippers on lake.

Orcs move out and set up mercenary operations.

Elves, Dwarves move out.

The feudal rulers

King Arinion includes Mordol in his kingdom—gives it in fealty to Sam Barkon, who went to build a castle. However, Grabdok sent army of fighters, clerics, magic-users to empty it. However, he didn't have enough power to occupy it once he defeated it, so he then left it.

* I'm guessing about "hot sands". It looks like hunt andro to me. Everything in the parentheses except "eggs" is unreadably faded.

The castle was built above a set of caverns from clerics from the pyramids, who, through a lot of R&D set it up nicely.

Samson Barkon (Sam's Son) tries to take over where dad left off. He built by the ocean. However, before the town was completely finished, vampires took over.*

King Fallon takes over the area of Mordol from the line of Arinion. He gives it to Justinian, who built up the town of Cankor, with magical protection.

Reign of Darsinian, Justinian's heir.

Reign of Jalset, Darsinian's heir.

Darien (present king) is born.

Darien turns out to be a black sheep (Lawful Evil), but is the only son.

Darien leaves, in a huff, with some friends.

TOWN STUFF

Base prices

These are used for the inns and taverns.

ale:	2 cp
small beer:	1 sp
wine:	2 sp
kelp tea:	5 cp
bread:	1 sp/slice
fish stew:	1 sp
fried fish:	1 gp/platter
fish/vegetable pie:	4 ep
water:	3 ep
fish filet:	1 gp/plate
roast meat:	7 gp
cheese:	8 gp/slice

From this we can deduce that fish is pretty damn cheap on this island. Bread, meat, and cheese are extremely expensive. And that ale for some reason is much cheaper than beer, and kelp tea is in the middle. Fresh water is pretty damn expensive, too.

Inns/taverns

Each inn has either two or three sets of prices. I'm assuming that the first price is for their best room, and the last price is for their common room, as this is pretty standard for D&D inns. If there's a middle price, they probably have two classes of rooms.

Each price also has a percentage after. For the life of me, I can't figure out what that percentage means. Judging from the notes for Cankor's Corker, it's the chance of something happening. Maybe it's the chance of a wandering monster? Or the chance that someone tries to steal their stuff? The latter doesn't fit my idea that the lowest price is for a common room; I'd expect the chance of theft much greater in the common room, and the numbers don't differ by much.

* This is almost certainly inspired by Stephen King's Salem's Lot, which scared the crap out of me as a kid. I remember sleeping with a cross for a couple of weeks after that book.

1. The Green Guardian. Tavern prices are at 2 times base. Inn prices are at 25 gp/month or 2 gp/night (4%); or 15 gp/month or 1 gp/night (7%). They have some sea serpent (delicacy!) at 150 gp for portions or 850 gp each.
2. Genesis. This is the best, and most prestigious, of the inns. Their tavern prices are at 2.5 times base. Inn prices are 30 gp/month or 3 gp/night (2%); or 18 gp/month or 1.5 gp/night (4%).
3. Borderline Tavern. Tavern prices are at 1.8 times base. Inn prices are 25 gp/month or 2 gp/night (5%); or 13 gp/month or 1.5 gp/night (7%).
4. The Pobtob. Tavern prices are at base. Inn prices are 20 gp/month or 1 gp/night (4%); or 10 gp/month or 5 sp/night (5%).
5. Trepis Inn. No tavern. Inn prices are at 20 gp/month or 1 gp/night (7%); 10 gp/month or 7 sp/night (9%); or 5 gp/month or 2 sp/night (12%).
6. Cankor's Corker. Tavern prices are at half of base. For prices, chances see Trepis Inn.

THE PYRAMID

Anyone inside the pyramid does not age, need food, or need drink.

At the bottom is a pool; people looking into it can see the future, past, and/or present. There is no controlling it. There is a 45% chance it will show someone an important event, not more than once a week, and -5% each successive week they try; +5% each week they don't look, not going higher than 45%.

TEXTBOOKS REMAINING IN COLLEGE

This section is in pen. Nothing else is, so this may be from a later strata.

Monsters

Descriptions, where they can be found if it can. 5% will not be listed. 10% cannot be found. 13% do not have weakness listed, or are otherwise incomplete.

It does have Hell Jellies.

Special Spells

Trace Magic

Fire Guardian

* That's a joke, son.

† That would be "The Rocky Coast". See, I took French in high school.

Magic Equipment—Basic

It does have spell scrolls, pluses on weapons, protection pluses on rings and amulets, potion spells, and wands of spells.

It does not have pluses on armor, helm of reading languages and magic, or helm of alignment changing.

Magic Equipment—Expert

It has special purpose weapons, rings of summoning lesser demons, staff of wizardry, crystal balls, ring of unknown control, pandora's box, shadow weapon, astral armor, and mirror of questions.

THINGS TO REMEMBER AND WRITE UP

This is a sheet of paper along with it, not something I'm planning on doing now.

NEW THINGS

That is, things that I can't find in the Basic set or Expert set rulebooks. I assume I made them up. This was the hardest part about going through this adventure. Why did I keep the adventure, but throw away all of my "generic" notes? I mean, let's face it, this adventure sucks. But some of the things I'm finding references to are potentially cool.

Magic

Amulet of protection from turning

This amulet provides some protection against being turned by clerics. I can't remember if it was an absolute protection or a penalty on the cleric's roll, but since the description doesn't provide a plus number, I'm guessing it was absolute.

Astral Armor

As I recall, this armor let you go astrally, leaving your body behind, for some distance. Every time a character goes out of body, however, there was a chance of some evil spirit taking their body over. While they could still return, the evil spirit would from then on influence them to be evil.

The player who found the armor used it whenever possible, and did in fact eventually turn evil. The other PCs decided to go along with it—one was either already evil or switched his alignment after a dream test from the alignment gods; I ended up creating a couple of adventures for evil characters, but the game broke up when we went to different colleges.

Bag of meals

Mmmm... donuts.

No, I have no idea. It sounds to me like a stock item, but I can't find it. So I'm going with, it gives you a different gourmet meal every day. One day it might be frogs' legs in hollandaise sauce, another day oysters on the half shell, perhaps some raw fish the next.

No wonder that ogre in map CA is ambushing adventurers.

Chaotic sword

There's a lizard-man hermit with a Chaotic Sword +/- 3. As I recall, this weapon required a secret roll by the Dungeon Master before every combat to determine if the sword was acting as a +3 sword or a -3 sword. The bonus or penalty applied to both 'to hit' rolls and damage rolls as normal. It did a minimum of 1 point of damage.

Crystal ball of time vision, Crystal ball with clairaudience

Is this one of mine? I vaguely recall enjoying having different kinds of crystal balls that could do the different things you were supposed to be able to do with crystal balls. So some could see the future, some could see the present, some could see and hear the present, and so-on.

Madrigal, the living lantern

Basically, a talking lantern with special knowledge. Possibly ESP and monster detection. If I remember right, it was evil and manipulative.

* And by "generic", I of course mean you could use them in any game as long as it was D&D.

Pandora's box

A box of curses. Assuming I wasn't being completely evil, opening it (or perhaps looking inside it) will let out one curse. If I was completely evil, opening it lets out all curses, like the original.

Powder of light/powder of darkness

These were powders you could throw into the air, and it would light the area up (or darken if it was powder of darkness). Pretty much a light spell or a darkness spell.

Ring of questions

The first question is, what does a ring of questions do?

Ring of true invisibility

This ring, if I recall, let people attack while invisible. It gave a bonus to AC and 'to hit' while in use, besides the normal surprise bonus to invisibility. Probably around 4.

Shadow weapon

As far as I can tell, there is no shadow weapon anywhere in this adventure. But the college still has textbooks on how to make them. My notes are somewhat incomplete: "+2, 1 point constitution. Exists in slight space warp. Must save vs. spells or feel compelled to use it (as cursed weapon). A normal person will lose one point (strength, wisdom, or constitution) every round it is used. If any hits zero, war will be"

Fortunately, I have never gamed with a normal person.

Sword of invisibility

Jogs something in my memory. I think this sword let the wielder choose to make themselves invisible, or make the blade invisible. The hilt is never invisible. If the wielder is invisible, they get a bonus to defense; if the blade is invisible, they get a bonus to attack.

Zombie battleaxe

A zombie battleaxe is a battleaxe that, when used by a zombie, can be thrown and will return to the zombie. I think it also gave the zombie bonuses to hit. What the guard on map DC in Rikladna is doing with one I have no idea. It's only useful for zombies. That's why, even though he has a magic weapon, it isn't marked as having any bonuses to hit or damage: he's not a zombie.

Creatures*Atavi*

This creature appears on the notes for the college, but I don't think they appear anywhere in the adventure—certainly not under that name, now that I have search. Oddly, these are also in pencil, whereas everything else on this sheet is in pen.

AC -1, HD 3+2, At sword+1, D 2-9, save F5, NG.

The Atavi has two forms: an out of phase form and a solid form. When out of phase, they cannot be hit, nor can they hit anyone. Nothing can affect them while they are out of phase. The stats here are for when they are solid.

Their swords are not magical, but gains their bonus by their special nature, and can only be used by Atavi.

They have the spells cure light wounds and cure serious wounds. They cannot be solid and cast spells at the same time.

Hell Jellies

I have no idea, but damn, it sounds cool. Demonic animated napalm?

Hydramen

When you kill a hydraman, two more hydramen take its place. However, those two attack and save as one hit die less, and have half the hit points of the original (round down). A hydraman that only has one hit point will not spawn more hydramen.

This is kind of cool. In the example in room 14 of map GC, the two hydramen will each become 32 single hit-point hydramen before they are killed permanently. That last generation pretty much pops like a balloon, but there are 32 of them all attacking as an HD 5 creature.

How about “angular soldiers from a crystalline reality” who “shatter, like holographs, into more fragile duplicates of themselves until the final generation fades out completely”?

Jonah Whales

I’m guessing they eat you, but you stay alive. They also barf you up in map AC’s underwater cavern.

Living darkness, living light

I may still have this one lying around somewhere. Literally, light or darkness that could move and attack. Light was Law, darkness was Chaos, and they could only be hit by magic weapons, which only did half damage.

Rock Dryads

Normal dryads live in trees. Rock dryads live in giant geodes. Their treasure is inside their rocks. I’m guessing from the notes here that it takes 5 dryads to charm someone. Much later, I named these petraiads, and they’re still in Gods & Monsters.

Shadowbird (Darkwing)

This creature appears on the notes for the college, but I don’t think they appear anywhere in the adventure—certainly not under that name, now that I have search.

AC 4, HD 5, At 2 claws/bite, D 1-6/1-6/2-8, save F3, NE. Treasure is nil.

Anyone seeing it must save vs. paralysis or run with fear.

Shadow slave

This creature appears on the notes for the college, but I don’t think they appear anywhere in the adventure—certainly not under that name, now that I have search.

AC 2, HD 12, At shadow weapon at +2, D 2-8 and 1 point constitution, save F12, CE. Number appearing is 1-4 (0), and treasure type is W.

Silver does half damage. Any losing all constitution become slaves of the shadow slave.

Sleestak

These are not my creation, of course, but they're also not from the books. They're from Sid & Marty Kroft's Land of the Lost. In my interpretation, there are different colors of Sleestak: Green and Blue. Green Sleestak are HD 6+1, and Blue Sleestak are HD 6 to 8. The Blue Sleestak are probably the ones from Enoch's time, and the Green Sleestak would then be their degenerate descendants. Blue Sleestak can use magic, and for some reason save as Dwarves of one level higher. Green Sleestak save as Dwarves of 8th level.

Soul Stealer

I don't see it in the basic or expert set, so this must be one of mine. The soul stealer can only be hit by magic weapons. Judging from the description in the map CC monster list, the souls it steals can somehow either be used or be freed. While this sounds like something from Elric, I had not read Michael Moorcock at this point (and still, to my shame, haven't read any of the Elric books).

Vampire sharks!

Vampire sharks! must always include the exclamation point. Exclamations weren't in the original, but I've decided to add them here. Lasers! optional.

What do you need to know about them? They're sharks... and they're vampires. Oh, they're also "bull" sharks, which in the expert set are 8 feet long; they like to ram their prey, stunning it, and then attack the stunned prey the next round.*

* Expert set D&D did not, as far as I can tell, have any rules for stunning or ramming.

PEOPLE OF THE ISLAND

BANDITS

Bandits travel in groups of (1) level 5 fighter and (5) level 3 fighters. Two of the level 3 fighters will have a crossbow and 3d10 quarrels.

A group going to the city (sneak in, of course) will usually have one of the thieves with them also.

The thieves do not live with the bandits: they live in the forest. Their treasure is buried. See map.

Bandits and thieves all have a holy symbol.

DEMONS

There are 700 common demons, 100 minor demons, and 30^{*} major demons.

Common Demons

AC 0, HD 6+10, Move 300' (100'), At: 2 claws/fire, D7-17x2/5-10, 700, save F12, ML 8 (12), CE
Common Demons can only possess with the help of a God-Demon, and the person gets a save vs. turn to stone at -3. Clerics at Level 7[†] may attempt a turn with an 11 needed to turn, progression as normal. Up to 5 demons may inhabit a person at a time. These demons may only materialize in the material plane as a fire person, only partly solid. A person who saves vs. a common may not be possessed by another common for 27 days, 18 hrs. Demons are immune to fire, and automatically make saves vs. magic fire.

Minor Demons

AC -3, HD 10+30, Move 420' (140'), At: 2 claws/fire, D8-29x2/5-10+1 level, 100, save F30, ML 9 (12), N(25%) or C/Evil
Minor Demons may possess someone, and the person gets a save vs. turn to stone at -4. Clerics at Level 9[‡] may attempt to turn one, progression as normal. These may take on the familiar goat form. Only 2 may possess a person at a time, but this is unlikely. These and above may enter freely into empty but alive bodies. (Of the trapped, these are the only who may escape in this manner.) Once a person saves vs. a minor demon, he cannot be possessed by another minor or common for 11 hours, 6 min. Damage done by magic fire is automatically half for these demons. Each Minor Demon leads 7 Common Demons.
Minor Demons may only be hit by magic weapons.

Major Demons

AC -5, HD 20+35, Move 600' (300'), AT 2 claws/fire, D11-36/7-11+2-3 levels, save F36, ML 8 (12), L(10%) or N (25%) or C/Evil. #: 30
Major Demons may possess someone, and the person gets -6 on save. Once a save vs. major demon is made, the character cannot be possessed by a major or less for 11 minutes 1 sec. 12th Level clerics[§] may attempt to turn. Major Demons may take the goat form, human form, or the form of a giant raven. Damage done by magic fire is automatically cut in four for these demons.
Major Demons may only be hit by magic weapons.

* Originally, 50. Definitely a management-heavy organization.
