What does this do? When examining any device, structure, or phenomena that requires a saving throw to avoid the effects of, you have a penalty of 1 on your saving throw, or 3 if the results would help the rest of the crew understand what's going on. If anyone else is examining something and sets it off, you must make a luck roll or it applies to you instead. This is true even if the result is arguably beneficial, such as turning you into a minor deity.
